INDIA bloc urges CJI intervention, alleges electoral process under threat

Opposition leaders seek judicial intervention, alleging democracy and electoral integrity face unprecedented challenges nationwide

NEW DELHI

Leaders of the INDIA bloc have written to Chief Justice of India Justice Surya Kant, alleging that India's democratic institutions are under severe strain and urging judicial intervention over what they described as partisan conduct by the Election Commission of India (ECI) and manipulation of electoral processes.

The memorandum, dated June 28 and released on Friday, was signed by leaders of 24 Opposition parties, including Independent MP Kapil Sibal. It raised concerns over the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in Bihar and West Bengal and alleged that elections in Delhi, Haryana and Maharashtra had been manipulated.

The Opposition claimed the ECI's independence had eroded since 2014, alleging appointments to the Commission favoured the ruling establishment. It also criticised changes to the appointment process for Election Commissioners, arguing they weakened institutional autonomy. The letter accused the Commission of selectively enforcing the Model Code of Conduct and questioned the rationale behind the SIR exercise, saying there was no evidence supporting claims of large-scale illegal inclusion of Bangladeshi voters.

It also alleged arbitrary deletion of voters and excessive deployment of Central Armed Police Forces in West Bengal.

Key demands

The INDIA bloc urged the Supreme Court to intervene to safeguard electoral democracy and sought the immediate suspension of the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls. It argued that such an exercise should only be undertaken well before an election cycle, allowing thorough door-to-door verification instead of relying primarily on document-based scrutiny.

> "When all else fails, people still repose their trust in the judiciary. So when the judiciary fails to respond, it indicates a complete breakdown of the Republic,"
> -In the memorandum.

3 States: Delhi, Haryana and Maharashtra polls alleged to be manipulated.

2.4 lakh CAPF personnel deployed in West Bengal, it claimed.

K'taka drafts Coastal–Malnad tourism policy to boost global tourism

Bengaluru: Karnataka is preparing the Coastal–Malnad Karnataka Tourism Policy 2026 to strengthen cruise, beach and adventure tourism while developing world-class visitor infrastructure, Energy and Tourism Minister K.J. George said during a high-level review meeting. The proposed policy will cover six coastal and Malnad districts, promoting theme-based tourism circuits and community-led initiatives. George directed officials to attract more international cruise liners to Mangaluru and develop curated tourism experiences for cruise passengers. He also stressed the need to develop Blue Flag beaches, improve cleanliness, safety, water sports and tourist amenities at destinations managed by the Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation and Jungle Lodges & Resorts, aiming to position Karnataka as a leading global tourism destination.

Uddhav announces 'Ram Raksha' protest over Ayodhya donations row

Mumbai: Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray on Friday announced a statewide "Ram Raksha" agitation from July 5, demanding accountability from the BJP over the alleged embezzlement of donations at the Ayodhya Ram Temple. Thackeray said party workers and supporters would gather at the Hanuman Temple in Dadar on Sunday to recite the Hanuman Stotra and Hanuman Chalisa before launching the protest. Urging people to join the agitation, he alleged that the BJP must answer for the alleged theft and demanded strict punishment for those involved. The alleged donation embezzlement surfaced in June. Eight people linked to the temple's donation collection and counting process have been arrested, and the investigation is ongoing.

CM recalls Mummadi Nirvana Swamiji's guidance, inaugurates memorial bridge

Announcement
Bridge inaugurated and named after the seer

Focus
Service, dharma, education and community welfare

KANAKAPURA

Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar on Friday paid glowing tributes to the late Dr. Mummadi Nirvana Mahaswamiji, describing him as a guiding light for Bengaluru South district and surrounding regions. Speaking at the seer's memorial programme at Sri Degula Mutt in Kanakapura, he said the occasion was one to celebrate the Swamiji's legacy by carrying forward his ideals of service and spirituality.

The Chief Minister said it was a privilege to inaugurate a bridge that the seer had long wished to see built. The bridge has been named after Mummadi Nirvana Mahaswamiji in recognition of his contribution to society.

Shivakumar recalled his family's long association with the mutt, saying generations had sought blessings and guidance from its seers. He added that he had always believed in rising, governing and serving people through the path of dharma.

Referring to a Sanskrit verse on selfless service, he said trees, rivers and cows exist for the benefit of others, and human life should similarly be dedicated to public welfare. He noted that the late Swamiji had lived by these values throughout his life.

The Chief Minister also revealed that the seer had blessed him before the Assembly elections and wished to see him become Chief Minister. He urged devotees to support mutts through charity and preserve institutions that provide food, education and shelter to society.

> "This is not a day to mourn but to continue the mission of Mummadi Nirvana Mahaswamiji. His ideals of service and dharma should guide future generations."
> -DK Shivakumar, CM

Bridge fulfils seer's long-cherished wish

Shivakumar said the newly inaugurated bridge was built in accordance with the late seer's long-standing request. Naming the bridge after Mummadi Nirvana Mahaswamiji, he said it would stand as a lasting tribute to the spiritual leader's contribution to society and continue inspiring people to follow the values of compassion, simplicity and selfless service.

Indian delegation pays tribute to Khamenei in Tehran

New Delhi: An Indian delegation representing the government and political parties paid tribute to Iran's late Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei in Tehran on Friday, attending funeral ceremonies alongside dignitaries from several countries.

The delegation was led by Bihar Governor Lt Gen (Retd.) Syed Ata Hasnain and Minister of State for External Affairs Pabitra Margherita. It also included former External Affairs Minister Salman Khurshid, Congress leader Pawan Khera, PDP president and former Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Mehbooba Mufti, and Anjuman-e-Sharie Shian president Aga Syed Hassan Mosavi Al Safavi.

Khamenei's coffin was placed at the Imam Khomeini Grand Mosalla for public homage ahead of his burial in Mashhad on July 9. Iran had also invited BJP, Congress and several Indian religious and political leaders.

Following the ceremony, Mehbooba Mufti said she had conveyed condolences and solidarity with the Iranian people. The Iranian Embassy in India also shared photographs of the delegation paying respects. Khamenei was killed in a joint US-Israeli strike on February 28.

Indian delegation

The delegation comprised Bihar Governor Lt Gen (Retd.) Syed Ata Hasnain, MoS for External Affairs Pabitra Margherita, Congress leaders Salman Khurshid and Pawan Khera, PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti, and Aga Syed Hassan Mosavi Al Safavi. Iran had also invited several other Indian political and religious leaders, though their attendance was not confirmed.

Ashoka alleges SIR misuse, seeks action over 'illegal voter enrolment'

Bengaluru: Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka on Friday alleged that the Congress government was misusing the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls by allowing Booth Level Officers (BLOs) to distribute forms indiscriminately, claiming it was part of a conspiracy to enrol illegal Bangladeshi migrants as voters in Karnataka.

Addressing a press conference, Ashoka said the Election Commission launched the SIR exercise to safeguard the integrity of electoral rolls and national security. However, he alleged that instead of conducting door-to-door verification, BLOs were distributing forms on streets and outside religious institutions.

He claimed such practices were taking place in areas including Mahadevapura and Byatarayanapura and announced that he would write to the Central and State Election Commissions seeking action against the officials concerned.

HD Kumaraswamy alleges SIR irregularities, seeks probe

Ramanagara: Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy on Friday accused the Congress government of misusing official machinery during the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in Karnataka and demanded that officials from outside the state be appointed to oversee the exercise. Addressing reporters in Ramanagara, Kumaraswamy said his party would submit a complaint to the Election Commission along with video evidence and documents alleging irregularities in the revision process.

He claimed the Congress was illegally adding names to the electoral rolls to strengthen its voter base and criticised the party leadership for speaking about constitutional values while allegedly permitting electoral malpractice.

Kumaraswamy also alleged that Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar had the Deputy Commissioner conduct the SIR process at his official residence, calling it the beginning of the alleged irregularities.

PM Modi to visit New Zealand, hold first talks with PM Christopher Luxon

New Delhi: Prime Minister Narendra Modi will make his first official visit to New Zealand next week, where he is scheduled to hold talks with Prime Minister Christopher Luxon following the signing of the landmark India–New Zealand Free Trade Agreement (FTA) in April.

Announcing the visit on X, Luxon said he was delighted to host Modi, describing India as one of the world's largest and fastest-growing economies. He said the FTA would strengthen bilateral ties by creating jobs, boosting exports and accelerating economic growth for New Zealand.

The Centre is yet to announce the detailed itinerary, though Modi is expected to arrive in Auckland on July 10. The visit follows his recent three-day tour of Seychelles.

The India–New Zealand FTA aims to boost trade in goods and services, encourage investment and expand market access for businesses in both countries. Under the agreement, New Zealand will eliminate tariffs on 95 per cent of its goods, while Indian exports will receive duty-free access to the New Zealand market. Bilateral merchandise trade between the two countries stood at $1.3 billion in 2024-25, while total trade in goods and services reached approximately $2.4 billion in 2024. The visit is expected to further strengthen cooperation in trade, investment, technology and regional connectivity.

CM MEETS SIDDARAMAIAH

HIMALAYAN SHRINE YATRA

Amarnath Yatra begins under multi-layered security amid strict registration norms

SRINAGAR

The 57-day Amarnath Yatra began on Friday with thousands of pilgrims setting out for the 3,800-metre-high cave shrine in the south Kashmir Himalayas via the Baltal and Pahalgam routes under extensive security arrangements.

The first batch of pilgrims was flagged off from the Baltal and Pahalgam base camps after Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha had earlier flagged off 4,822 yatris from Bhagwati Nagar in Jammu. Pilgrims travelled in escorted convoys and were welcomed on their arrival in Kashmir.

The Jammu and Kashmir administration advised devotees to undertake the pilgrimage only on their allotted registration dates, warning that no pilgrim would be permitted to travel before the scheduled date. Authorities also urged pilgrims to complete advance registration as Tatkal slots remain limited.

Security has been significantly strengthened with police, Army and paramilitary forces deploying drones, CCTV surveillance, facial recognition systems, sniper teams, observation posts and GPS-enabled RFID cards to monitor pilgrim movement and ensure safety. Helicopter services remain suspended for the second consecutive year, while all Yatra routes have been declared a no-flying zone.

> "I pray that this pilgrimage of Lord Shiva's devotees is safe, peaceful, and auspicious in every way."
> -Narendra Modi, PM

Annual Amarnath Yatra draws thousands of devotees

- 57 days: Duration of the Amarnath Yatra.
- 4,822: Pilgrims flagged off from Jammu in the first batch.
- August 28: Yatra concludes on Raksha Bandhan.

Enhanced security

Authorities have deployed 670 additional paramilitary companies, 416 CCTV cameras, GPS-enabled RFID tracking, facial recognition systems, drones, UAVs, sniper teams and observation posts to ensure the safe conduct of the pilgrimage. Pilgrims have also been instructed to travel only on their registered dates to facilitate crowd management and security.

Youth Congress names Gowda campaign coordinator

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
Karnataka Pradesh Youth Congress (KPYCC) president H.S. Manjunath Gowda has been appointed Bengaluru city coordinator for the Indian National Congress' nationwide 'Chatrom Ki Goonj' campaign. The 40-day campaign, to be held across 28 major cities under the leadership of the Indian Youth Congress (IYC) and NSUI, aims to highlight issues affecting students and youth, including examination irregularities, unemployment, recruitment delays and reforms in the education sector. Launched under the guidance of Lok Sabha Opposition Leader Rahul Gandhi, the campaign will also focus on concerns such as the alleged NEET question paper leak and irregularities in competitive examinations through a series of public outreach programmes.

Three get life term for killing auto driver over Rs 2,000 loan

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
A Bengaluru court has sentenced three rowdies to life imprisonment for murdering an autorickshaw driver over an unpaid loan of Rs 2,000. The convicts, Venkatesh, Puneet and Nagaraj of K.P. Agrahara, were found guilty of killing D. Nagaraj in March 2016. Police said the victim had borrowed Rs 2,000 from Venkatesh and was attacked after failing to repay the amount. The trio allegedly intercepted Nagaraj near his Magadi Road residence and hacked him to death with lethal weapons. The victim's father, Dhanashekhar, witnessed the murder and alerted police. Testimonies from him and other eyewitnesses helped the prosecution establish a strong case, leading to the conviction and life sentences for all three accused.

Health officer caught accepting Rs 15,000 bribe

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
A District Leprosy Officer attached to the Department of Health and Family Welfare was caught by Lokayukta police while allegedly accepting a bribe of Rs 15,000 for approving a Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (KPME) licence. The accused, Dr. Bhujabali D. Yalagudri (54), was trapped following a complaint by 25-year-old Unani doctor Muffassir Ahmed Muzammil. The complainant alleged that the officer had demanded Rs 30,000 to clear his KPME licence application. Acting on the complaint, Lokayukta police laid a trap and caught the officer while allegedly accepting part of the bribe.

Ultrasound selectively destroys oral cancer cells: IISc study

Research offers hope for safer, targeted oral cancer treatment using low-frequency ultrasound technology effectively.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Researchers at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) have found that low-frequency ultrasound can selectively destroy oral cancer cells while largely sparing healthy cells, offering hope for a less invasive treatment for one of India's most common cancers.

Oral cancer remains a major public health concern in India, primarily due to the widespread use of tobacco and arecanut products. Existing treatment options, including surgery, chemotherapy and radiotherapy, often damage healthy tissue alongside cancer cells, leading to significant side effects.

In the study, IISc researchers collaborated with clinicians from M.S. Ramaiah Medical College and Hospitals to test low-frequency ultrasound on oral tumour samples collected directly from patients. By using patient-derived samples instead of conventional laboratory-grown cancer cell lines, the researchers were able to better reflect the diversity of oral cancers seen among Indian patients.

The team found that oral cancer cells were highly vulnerable to the moderate mechanical forces generated by ultrasound. According to the researchers, this is because the cancer cells contain lower levels of Tropomyosin 2.1, a protein that enables healthy cells to sense and withstand mechanical stress. As a result, ultrasound exposure triggered selective death of cancer cells while leaving healthy oral epithelial cells largely unaffected.

Using a three-dimensional co-culture model that closely resembles the tumour environment, the researchers also observed that ultrasound disrupted the dense protective barrier surrounding tumour cells. Such barriers often prevent medicines and immune cells from reaching tumours, reducing the effectiveness of existing therapies.

"The novelty of this study lies in showing how ultrasound mechanostimulation can selectively target oral cancer cells by exploiting their mechanical weakness," said Ajay Tijore, Assistant Professor in IISc's Department of Bioengineering and the study's corresponding author.

Rashmita Luha, a PhD student at IISc and the study's first author, said the consistency of the results across tumour samples from patients at different stages of cancer was particularly encouraging.

As ultrasound is already widely used in clinical practice and is non-invasive, the researchers believe the findings could pave the way for safer and more targeted cancer therapies. The team now plans to evaluate the approach in advanced preclinical models and investigate whether combining ultrasound with existing treatments can improve drug delivery and treatment outcomes.

Teen dies in hydraulic lift accident; hardware store owners booked

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A 15-year-old boy died in a tragic hydraulic lift accident at a hardware store on Tannery Road, with police booking the shop owners for allegedly employing the minor in hazardous work in violation of child labour laws.

The deceased, Salman Khan, had recently moved to Bengaluru with his family from Mumbai. His father, Ameen Allabaksha Syed, a painter, told police that Salman had completed Class 9 and was awaiting admission to Class 10 as his school transfer records were yet to arrive from Mumbai.

Hoping to keep his son engaged during the vacation, Syed approached the owners of Nellai Hardware Stores, Noushad Ali, Mohammed Meenar and M. Shafiulla, who had agreed to teach the boy computer-related work.

However, according to the complaint, Salman was instead assigned manual labour and asked to transport heavy 20-litre paint cans between floors using a hydraulic material lift. The father alleged that his son had informed him about the work, and he had planned to withdraw him from the shop once the school admission process was completed.

The accident occurred on June 28. Around 12.40 p.m., Shafiulla allegedly telephoned Syed, asking him to rush to the store after informing him that Salman had been injured.

When Syed reached the premises, he found his son dead with his head trapped inside the hydraulic lift mechanism. According to preliminary information, Salman was moving paint cans from the ground floor to the first floor when his hair allegedly became entangled in the machinery. He reportedly lost balance, and his head was crushed by the lift mechanism.

The grieving father has accused the store owners of illegally employing a minor, compelling him to perform hazardous work, failing to provide basic safety measures and allowing him to operate an allegedly defective hydraulic lift.

Police have registered a case against the three owners under the Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act and Section 106 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (causing death by negligence). A senior police officer said notices have been served on the accused, and further investigation is underway to determine the circumstances leading to the fatal accident and whether additional violations were committed.

Karnataka to e-auction 579 liquor licences from July-end

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka Excise Department will conduct an e-auction of 579 liquor licences, including 483 CL-2A retail liquor shop licences and 96 CL-9A bar licences, in the last week of July as part of efforts to improve transparency and boost government revenue.

The licences, which have remained unutilised, will be allotted through an online bidding process for a period of five excise years, from 2026-27 to 2030-31.

According to the department, Bengaluru Urban has the highest base price of Rs 1.5 crore per licence. Belagavi, Ballari, Mysuru, Dharwad and Hubballi follow with a base price of around Rs 1.1 crore.

The move stems from the 2025-26 State Budget, which proposed auctioning unused liquor licences electronically to enhance resource mobilisation for the state exchequer.

The government has also amended Rule 5 of the Karnataka Excise (Sale of Indian and Foreign Liquors) Rules, 1968, introducing reservations in the allotment of CL-2A and CL-9A licences.

Under the revised framework, 5.2 per cent of licences each will be reserved for Scheduled Caste-A and Scheduled Caste-B applicants, 4.5 per cent for Scheduled Caste-C, and 3 per cent for Scheduled Tribe applicants.

Excise officials said the reservation policy is intended to extend self-employment opportunities to marginalised communities, similar to reservation provisions in education and government employment.

Officials noted that several states, including Andhra Pradesh and Telangana, have adopted comparable models based on local requirements. A previous attempt to introduce reservations in liquor licence allotment in Karnataka had faced legal challenges.

CREDAI seeks higher FAR, uniform zoning norms across Karnataka

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Developers urge the State to raise Floor Area Ratio limits, introduce uniform regulations and streamline approvals to boost housing supply and reduce project delays.

The Confederation of Real Estate Developers' Associations of India (CREDAI) Bengaluru has urged the Karnataka government to significantly increase the proposed Floor Area Ratio (FAR) under the draft Uniform Zonal Regulations, arguing that the current limits do not reflect Bengaluru's expanding infrastructure capacity and could restrict housing supply while pushing up property prices.

In a representation submitted to the Urban Development Department and the Bengaluru Metropolitan Region Development Authority (BMRDA), the developers' body sought higher FAR limits for both residential and commercial developments.

CREDAI has proposed increasing the FAR from the draft limit of 2.25 to 3 for plots abutting roads measuring 18 to 24 metres in width, and from 2.5 to 4 for sites located on roads wider than 24 metres. It has also sought similar revisions for public, semi-public, transport and utility land-use categories.

According to the association, many of Bengaluru's peripheral growth corridors already possess wider roads, improved connectivity and planned civic infrastructure, making them suitable for higher-density development.

The developers' body said higher FAR would enable more efficient use of scarce urban land, promote planned vertical growth and help reduce urban sprawl. It argued that increased density in well-serviced areas would allow more people to live closer to workplaces, educational institutions and healthcare facilities, reducing travel time and easing pressure on transport networks.

CREDAI also urged the government to adopt a uniform FAR framework across Karnataka instead of having varying regulations in different urban centres. It said such a policy would encourage investment not only in Bengaluru but also in emerging cities such as Mysuru, Mangaluru, Hubballi and Udupi.

The association further recommended introducing a single-window clearance mechanism for real estate projects to reduce procedural delays, improve regulatory certainty and accelerate project execution.

It also highlighted delays in obtaining fire safety clearances despite a government order issued on September 10, 2025, delegating approval powers for buildings below 21 metres to district-level fire officials.

CREDAI alleged that the decentralised system has not been implemented effectively, resulting in continued delays in project approvals.

CREDAI's key demands

CREDAI has sought higher FAR limits under the draft regulations, a uniform zoning framework across Karnataka, a single-window approval system for real estate projects, and strict implementation of the government order decentralising fire safety No Objection Certificate approvals to district-level officials to speed up project clearances and improve the ease of doing business.

NHAI identifies 20 highway parking black spots in Karnataka

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) has identified 20 critical locations across Karnataka where persistent unauthorised parking on national highways has emerged as a major safety concern.

The locations were flagged after repeated instances of illegal parking, roadside encroachments and unregulated activities that obstruct traffic movement and increase the risk of accidents. The exercise is part of a nationwide initiative in which NHAI identified 595 such black spots.

Among the 20 locations in Karnataka, four are in Bengaluru, three in Udupi district, two each in Chikkaballapura and Chamarajanagar districts, while the remaining are spread across other parts of the state.

According to NHAI, unauthorised parking in non-designated areas disrupts the smooth flow of traffic and poses serious risks to motorists. To facilitate prompt action, the authority has mapped the exact latitude and longitude of each identified location.

An NHAI official said the authority does not have the power to impose penalties or enforce traffic regulations but is working closely with the state government, district administrations and enforcement agencies to remove illegally parked vehicles from national highways.

To strengthen coordination, NHAI has urged the state government to establish district-level highway safety task forces and appoint nodal officers to monitor compliance and ensure timely enforcement.

The authority has also instructed its field offices to conduct immediate audits of Advanced Traffic Management System (ATMS) infrastructure. This includes checking the functioning of traffic surveillance cameras, video incident detection systems, speed detection equipment, variable message signboards and emergency call boxes.

Rodent menace drives up vehicle repair bills across Bengaluru

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Bengaluru's growing rodent population is emerging as an unexpected and expensive problem for motorists, with rats increasingly damaging vehicle wiring, fuel pipes and other critical components, forcing owners to spend thousands of rupees on repairs.

Residents across several neighbourhoods say the problem has worsened in recent months, particularly in areas with open drains, overflowing garbage and poor waste management. Cars and two-wheelers parked on roadsides have become easy targets for rodents, prompting repeated visits to workshops.

S.N. Mishra, a legal adviser living in Indiranagar, said two of his cars suffered extensive damage after rats chewed through electrical wiring while the vehicles were parked on the street.

"The repair costs are expected to exceed Rs 80,000, and both vehicles are still at the workshop. We have tried sprays, metal guards and other preventive measures, but nothing has worked. Despite repeated complaints, the civic authorities have not addressed the problem," he said.

M. Uma, a resident of Jeevan Bima Nagar, said her vehicle had been damaged twice in recent months, while similar incidents affected her neighbour's scooter and car. "The rodents have also dug up our gardens and destroyed plants and flower pots. Authorities must take immediate steps to control the infestation," she said.

Alexy F., a resident of Hosa Road, said he frequently sees rats emerging from roadside drains at night. Since his apartment lacks adequate parking, he parks his motorcycle on the street and places large stones around it in an attempt to stop rodents from climbing onto the vehicle. Automobile workshops say such cases have become routine. Sudarshan Sahu, customer care manager at a car service centre, said the workshop receives at least four vehicles daily with rat-related damage.

WALKERS IN DISTRESS

Jalahalli Cross leaves pedestrians stranded amid poor infrastructure

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Jalahalli Cross is one of Bengaluru's busiest transport hubs, carrying thousands of vehicles every hour and connecting commuters to the Metro, BMTC services and inter-city buses. Yet, for pedestrians, the junction has become a daily obstacle course marked by missing footpaths, unsafe bus stops and neglected civic infrastructure.

On the Tumakuru Road stretch opposite Jalahalli Metro station, one side of the road has no footpath. The roadside has effectively turned into an informal bus bay where BMTC, KSRTC and private buses stop or park, forcing commuters to navigate through buses and moving traffic. The uneven surface, strewn with gravel and stones, makes walking especially difficult for senior citizens, children and persons with disabilities. Ironically, the designated bus shelter nearby remains largely unused, surrounded by garbage. Passengers often have no option but to step onto the carriageway to board buses.

Conditions are equally poor along the Peenya Ring Road, where four bus shelters have become unusable due to accumulated waste, damaged footpaths and misuse as public urinals. A makeshift autorickshaw stand further blocks the limited pedestrian space available.

Barely 100 metres away, however, the contrast is striking. A stretch upgraded under the B-SMILE project features smooth white-topped roads and wide, continuous footpaths, highlighting how improved pedestrian infrastructure can transform public spaces when executed consistently.

Towards Dasarahalli, one side of Tumakuru Road has no footpath at all, while the other is encroached upon by autorickshaws, parked two-wheelers and shopfront extensions. Vegetable market waste lines sections of the roadside, reducing already limited walking space.

Subroto Mukherjee Road presents another hazard, with damaged drain covers, missing concrete slabs and exposed drains posing risks to pedestrians.

A long-awaited underpass sanctioned under the Chief Minister Nagarothana scheme in 2017-18 remains stalled despite partial land acquisition. Eight years later, construction has yet to begin.

The delay also reflects an administrative challenge. Jalahalli Cross falls under the jurisdictions of both Bengaluru North and Bengaluru West city corporations, resulting in fragmented responsibility and slow implementation of civic projects.

With thousands of commuters using the junction every day, residents say basic infrastructure such as continuous footpaths, dedicated bus bays, proper waste management and coordinated civic action can no longer be delayed. Until then, one of Bengaluru's busiest intersections will continue to prioritise vehicles while leaving pedestrians to fend for themselves.

GESCOM imposes 10.40 lakh penalty for power theft

CH NEWS, Raichur
The vigilance wing of GESCOM has imposed penalties amounting to 10.40 lakh after detecting cases of electricity theft, power leakage, and unauthorised usage across Raichur district during June 2026. According to an official statement, inspections were carried out under Raichur Urban Sub-Division and several surrounding areas, including Manvi Town, Sirwar Cross, Talmari, and Yatgal, among others. Officials identified multiple instances of illegal connections and misuse of electricity during the drive. A total penalty of 10,40,549 was levied on offenders. GESCOM has urged consumers to regularise connections and clear pending dues to avoid disconnection and legal action.

DC orders prior approval for road works

CH NEWS, Yadgir
District Collector Rahul Pandey has directed that all departments must obtain prior approval from the Commissioner or Chief Officer of the concerned Urban Local Body before starting any road construction or repair works within municipal limits.
He issued the instructions during a coordination meeting held at the Deputy Commissioner's office, where ongoing infrastructure projects by multiple agencies, including KUWSDB, KUIDFC, PWD, GESCOM, KRIDL, Nirmiti Kendra, and KKRDB, were reviewed. The DC also stressed timely completion of AMRUT 2.0 drinking water works, ensured uninterrupted power supply to pumping stations, and sought detailed reports on water infrastructure across urban areas.

Minister M.B. Patil urges parents send girls school daily

Minister M.B. Patil highlighted CSR role in rural education during Kotyal school inauguration in Vijayapura district

VIJAYAPURA

Karnataka Minister for Large and Medium Industries and Infrastructure Development M. B. Patil has called upon parents to ensure that girls are regularly sent to school, stressing that education is the foundation for empowerment and national progress. He said that rural girls, in particular, must be given equal opportunities to study and build successful careers.

He was speaking after inaugurating a newly upgraded Government High School building at Kotyal village in Tikota taluk, developed at a cost of ₹3.25 crore under the Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) initiative of the Kempegowda International Airport Foundation and Bangalore International Airport Limited (BIAL). The minister said such collaborations between government and private institutions are crucial in strengthening educational infrastructure in rural areas.

Patil noted that the new school building would provide a better learning environment for students from Kotyal and surrounding villages. He appreciated BIAL's contribution through CSR funding and said that investments in education directly contribute to long-term social and economic development.

He emphasized that education can transform the lives of rural children, especially girls, enabling them to become doctors, engineers, teachers and professionals. "Parents must take responsibility to send their daughters to school without hesitation," he said, adding that education is essential for building an empowered society.

The upgraded school campus includes seven classrooms for Classes 1 to 10, a STEM laboratory, a Nali-Kali activity room, improved sanitation facilities, and a modern kitchen and dining hall. Additional infrastructure such as furniture, toilets, and renovated buildings aims to improve both academic and welfare conditions for students.

Officials said similar CSR-supported projects are being implemented in other parts of Vijayapura district. The government is also focusing on smart classrooms, school infrastructure upgrades, and providing essential learning materials.

BIAL officials stated that the initiative reflects their commitment to rural education development. Local representatives and community members welcomed the project, expressing hope that improved facilities will boost student enrollment and academic performance in the region.

Monsoon failure drains Almatti reservoir levels

VIJAYAPURA

Monsoon Failure Drains Almatti Reservoir, Raising Severe Water Crisis Concerns Across Vijayapur and North Karnataka Region

The failure of the southwest monsoon has pushed the Almatti Reservoir in Vijayapura district to a critically low level, raising serious concerns over drinking water supply, irrigation, and rural livelihoods across North Karnataka. The reservoir, officially known as the Lal Bahadur Shastri Reservoir, currently holds only about 3.14 TMC of usable water, alarming officials and residents who depend heavily on it.

Built across the Krishna River, the Almatti Reservoir has a total storage capacity of 123 TMC and serves as a lifeline for Vijayapur, Bagalkote, and several neighbouring districts. In a normal year, the reservoir receives substantial inflows by the end of June from the Krishna River catchment areas in Maharashtra and Karnataka due to early monsoon activity. However, this year the southwest monsoon has remained weak and inconsistent, resulting in poor inflows and steadily declining water levels.

The shortage is now beginning to affect multiple sectors. Drinking water supply in both urban and rural areas is under pressure, with authorities closely monitoring distribution and consumption. Irrigation networks dependent on Almatti are also facing uncertainty, putting thousands of hectares of agricul tural land at risk. Farmers who had already sown crops in anticipation of timely rains are now worried about crop failure and financial losses if dry conditions persist.

The crisis is also impacting allied activities. Livestock owners are struggling with limited water availability, while fishermen operating in and around the reservoir have reported redu ced catches due to shrinking wa ter spread. Rural communities are increasingly anxious as water scarcity begins to affect daily life and economic stability.

BJP MLC demands arrest over fatal quarry rockfall

KALABURAGI

BJP MLC N. Ravikumar has demanded immediate arrest of quarry owners and higher compensation for victims' families following a deadly rockfall incident near Bengaluru that claimed seven lives. Speaking in Kalaburagi, he expressed deep sorrow over the tragedy and alleged serious negligence by quarry operators. He insisted that both owners of the quarry must be taken into custody without delay and held accountable for the safety lapses that led to the accident.

Ravikumar said that seven workers died when a massive rock reportedly collapsed at the quarry site. He stated that six of the deceased were from Madhya Pradesh, while one worker, Rama Nayak from Yadgir district, was also killed in the incident. Highlighting the financial hardship of the victims' families, he demanded ₹25 lakh compensation for each affected family along with a government job for the wife of the deceased worker Rama Nayak, or another eligible family member.

He also urged the Karnataka government to coordinate with the Madhya Pradesh government to ensure ₹50 lakh compensation for each of the six workers from that state. He criticized the government, alleging that adequate relief measures had not yet been announced.

In a separate issue, Ravikumar also demanded a probe into the escape of a POCSO accused from Afzalpur Police Station in Kalaburagi district.

He questioned how the accused managed to flee custody, alleging possible negligence by police personnel. He called for strict action against officers responsible for security lapses and a thorough investigation into the incident.

Ravikumar further pointed out that Kalaburagi is the home district of Home Minister Priyank Kharge and raised concerns over law and order management.

He urged authorities to trace and re-arrest the escaped accused immediately and ensure accountability within the police department.

Housing project turns into neglected layout

VIJAYAPURA

A housing project once intended to fulfil the dreams of home ownership for hundreds of families has now turned into a deserted and neglected layout, with abandoned structures, overgrown vegetation, and allegations of illegal activities. Residents have strongly blamed the Vijayapura City Corporation for failing to provide basic civic amenities after taking over maintenance from the Karnataka Housing Board.

The Kasaba-2 Layout, located on the outskirts of Vijayapura city, was developed over more than 260 acres by the Karnataka Housing Board, including residential sites and government-built houses. The project was inaugurated in 2009–10, with then Housing Minister V. Somanna launching the allotment process. However, even after nearly 15 years, the layout remains largely uninhabited.

Instead of developing into a thriving residential colony, the area has now taken the form of a "ghost town." Several houses constructed by the government remain incomplete, with missing doors and windows, and are slowly deteriorating. Thick bus hes have overgrown vacant plots, further adding to the neglect.

Locals allege that deserted houses have become a hub for anti-social and unsafe activities, making the area unfit and even unsafe to enter, especially after sunset. The absence of street lighting has worsened the situation, creating fear amo ng residents and visitors alike.

Residents say the main reason for the failure of the project is the complete lack of essential infrastructure. Roads are in poor condition, drinking water supply is unreliable, and basic sanitation facilities are missing. Despite land allotments being made years ago, beneficiaries have been unable to construct homes or shift into the layout.

They further allege that after the Karnataka Housing Board handed over maintenance to the Vijayapura City Corporation, the civic body failed to act effectively. Repeated complaints about poor construction quality and infrastructure decay have reportedly gone un-answered.th crores of rupees of public money invested in the project, locals are now demanding urgent intervention by the district administration to restore basic facilities such as roads, water supply, electricity, sanitation, and security, so that Kasaba-2 Layout can finally become a livable residential area instead of remaining a symbol of administrative neglect.

Hindu Jagaran Vedike welcomes High Court verdict

BIDAR

The Hindu Jagaran Vedike has welcomed a Karnataka High Court order dismissing a writ petition filed by Home Minister Priyank Kharge, while also criticising his approach on law and order issues in the state. Advocate Shivasharnapa Patil, a functionary of the organisation, made these remarks in a statement.

Patil said the High Court had rejected the petition, which, according to him, sought to restrain members of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) from initiating defamation cases. He stated that the organisation respects the judiciary's decision and considers it a reaffirmation of constitutional rights.

He further alleged that this was not the first instance where the High Court had differed with the Home Minister's stand. Referring to earlier developments linked to RSS centenary celebrations, Patil claimed that the state government had initially denied permission for an RSS Path Sanchalan (route march) in Chittapur, but the court later allowed it.

Criticising the Home Minister, Patil alleged that Priyank Kharge was focusing more on targeting the RSS instead of addressing what he described as rising concerns over law and order in Karnataka. He claimed that incidents of murder and other crimes were increasing and said the government should prioritise public safety over ideological disputes.

Patil described the RSS as a century-old organisation engaged in national service and patriotism. He alleged that attempts to create ideological divisions among youth were "misplaced" and counterproductive.

Karnataka farmers demand urgent drought relief declaration now

VIJAYAPURA

Farmers' representatives in Karnataka have intensified their demand for the state government to immediately declare the region drought-hit as the monsoon deficit continues to worsen agricultural prospects across North Karnataka. Vijayapura District Farmers' Association President Aravind Kulkarni has warned that delayed action could severely impact sowing operations, crop survival, and rural livelihoods.

Addressing reporters in Vijayapura, Kulkarni said the current rainfall pattern has failed to meet seasonal expectations even as July progresses. He noted that several key agricultural zones across the Krishna basin have recorded poor inflows into major reservoirs, leaving irrigation schedules uncertain and drinking water prioritisation inevitable.

He pointed out that despite repeated assurances from government authorities, ground conditions remain unchanged. Farmers in multiple taluks have already prepared fields in anticipation of the monsoon, but the absence of consistent rainfall has forced many to postpone sowing or risk crop failure. This uncertainty, he said, is pushing cultivators into financial distress due to rising input costs and dependence on borrowed funds.

Kulkarni also referred to recent remarks by Deputy Chief Minister D. K. Shivakumar, stating that the government itself has acknowledged declining water levels in reservoirs and the need to prioritise drinking water supply. He said this admission highlights the seriousness of the situation and should be followed by immediate policy action rather than continued assessment.

He urged the state government to announce a comprehensive drought relief package, including compensation for crop loss, input subsidies, and interest relief on agricultural loans. According to him, timely intervention is crucial to prevent long-term damage to the rural economy and protect the livelihood of thousands of farming families.

Farmers' associations across the region are expected to continue their appeal, pressing for swift declaration of drought-hit status and immediate implementation of relief measures before the agricultural crisis deepens further in the coming weeks.

Hindu Jagaran Vedike welcomed the Karnataka High Court verdict and criticised Home Minister Priyank Kharge's remarks.

MLA Sharanu claims five guarantees impact devpt works

YADGIR

Gurmitkal MLA Sharanu Gouda Kandakur has alleged that the Karnataka government's five guarantee schemes have adversely affected rural infrastructure development due to delays in the release of funds for development works.

He made the remarks while speaking at a foundation stone-laying ceremony for several projects undertaken under the Kalyana Karnataka Regional Development Board (KKRDB) grant. The works include construction of school classrooms at Gopalpur, an Anganwadi centre at Chinnakar, a public building at Bettadalli, and additional classrooms at the Government School in Dharmapur Tanda.

The MLA said that although funds are sanctioned annually, delays in implementation have slowed down development activities in rural areas. He added that he had recommended ₹10 lakh under the Chief Minister's Special Grant for Gopalpur village and assured that the Nawaburj–Gopalpur road would be taken up for improvement soon. Kandakur also highlighted the need to recruit 5,000 teachers in the Kalyana Karnataka region, stating that it would help address the shortage of teaching staff in government schools and improve the quality of education.

He further alleged irregularities in the utilisation of ₹5 crore allocated during 2015–16 for lake desilting works, claiming that the funds were misused by certain officials and public representatives. He said that following this, fresh allocations for similar works had been delayed.Referring to ongoing development initiatives, the MLA noted that the Government Primary School building at Chinnakar was constructed during the tenure of his late father, Naganagouda Kandakur, and continues to serve students effectively. He added that approval had been granted for a road leading to Bettadalli hill, with ₹3 crore already released out of the ₹10 crore sanctioned during the tenure of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, and work is expected to begin soon.

Later, the MLA interacted with villagers and directed officials to resolve public grievances without delay. Officials from various departments and local leaders were present during the programme.

MONSOON DEFICIT CRISIS

Monsoon deficit dries Krishna River in Yadgir

YADGIR

Deficient monsoon rainfall ac ross Karnataka and the upper ca tchment regions of Maharashtra has severely reduced water avai lability in the Krishna River basin, creating an alarming situation for farmers and residents of Yadgir district. The river, which serves as the lifeline of the region, is witnessing drastically reduced flow, with several stre tches of the riverbed now completely dry.

The crisis has been intensified by weak inflows into the Basavasagar Reservoir at Narayanpur in Hunasagi taluk. The reservoir, which plays a crucial role in regional irrigation and drinking water supply, has a gross storage capacity of 33 TMC but currently holds only about 5 TMC of live storage. Officials have reserved this limited water primarily for drinking water needs, leaving little scope for irrigation releases.

This situation marks a sharp contrast to the previous year, when heavy rainfall in the Krishna basin led to surplus inflows. On July 3 of last year, nearly 90,000 cusecs of water were released from the reservoir, causing flooding in several villages along the riverbanks and damaging standing crops. This year, however, the absence of sufficient rainfall has reversed conditions entirely.

Agricultural activity in the re gion has been severely disrupted. Farmers dependent on river-fed irrigation have been unable to begin paddy cultivation, while large stretches of fer tile land remain uncultivated due to lack of water. The uncertainty has created anxiety among cultivators who are now fully depen dent on the arrival of monsoon rains in the upper catchme nt areas for any improvement in conditions. Residents and farmers fear that continued dry weather could push the region into a deeper water crisis affecting drinking water supply, livestock, and rural livelihoods. Authorities are closely monitoring the situation, but immediate relief depends on significant rainfall in the coming weeks.

MCC erects barricades ahead of monsoon hazards

Mangaluru

Mangaluru City Corporation (MCC) has taken preventive measures by installing temporary road barricades in vulnerable hilly stretches of the city as part of its monsoon safety preparedness plan. The initiative aims to reduce the risk of accidents in areas prone to landslides, soil erosion, and surface instability during heavy rainfall. According to officials from the MCC engineering division, the barricades have been placed at several high-risk points, including the Kudkorigudda stretch, where steep slopes run close to busy bypass roads. These locations have been identified as sensitive zones where continuous rainfall can weaken the soil structure and increase the chances of slipping or sudden ground movement.

Caste census report will be implemented soon says Yathindra

Yathindra said cabinet discussed 23 agenda items including new public service department SIR governance and administrative decisions recently

DAVANAGERE

The caste census report, which Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had strongly supported as his long-cherished initiative, has been accepted and will be implemented by the government after discussion in the cabinet, said Minister Yathindra Siddaramaiah while speaking to reporters in Davanagere.

He said the government had already committed in its election manifesto to release and implement the caste census report, and that promise would now be fulfilled. He added that although Siddaramaiah had earlier expressed a desire to continue as Chief Minister for a longer period, he has now stepped down from the position due to certain circumstances, but his vision for social justice remains a priority for the government.

Yathindra said the cabinet had discussed 23 agenda items in its recent meeting, including the creation of a new public service department and several administrative decisions. He also mentioned that discussions were held on issues related to SIR and other governance matters. He said the government would move forward with decisions taken collectively in the cabinet.

On the issue of electricity privatization, the minister clearly stated that the state government is firmly opposed to any move toward privatization. He said both the Chief Minister and Energy Minister have already clarified that electricity services will remain under public control and will not be handed over to private players under any circumstances.

Responding to criticism from opposition leaders, Yathindra said opposition parties naturally raise objections, but many of their allegations are politically motivated. He defended the government's stand on electoral roll revision, alleging that voter rights of many citizens were affected and calling for stronger safeguards by the Election Commission.

He also highlighted challenges in housing projects and said he was holding meetings to address delays and issues in implementation. He added that nearly Rs 18,000 crore under the 15th Finance Commission is still pending and has been requested for release to strengthen local body development works.

Speaking on governance timelines, he said local body elections and Greater Bengaluru Authority elections would be conducted soon. On cabinet expansion, he said the decision rests with the party high command and is expected within two weeks.

He concluded that welfare guarantees will continue for eligible beneficiaries, based on need and population, not caste alone, ensuring support reaches the truly deserving sections of society.

High Court upholds probe in Eshwarappa case

BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has upheld a special court order directing an investigation by the Lokayukta police into allegations of disproportionate assets against former minister K.S. Eshwarappa and his family members, and dismissed the petition challenging the proceedings.

A division bench headed by Justice M. Nagaprasanna heard the petition filed by K.S. Eshwarappa, his son K.E. Kantesh, and daughter-in-law Shalini, who had sought to quash the special court order that directed a detailed probe into the alleged embezzlement of assets beyond known sources of income.

The court observed that the complaint in the case was filed several years ago and that the legal provisions applicable at the time were under the Criminal Procedure Code. It noted that there was no procedural violation in ordering an investigation under the then-existing law, and therefore found no grounds to interfere with the special court's direction.During the hearing, the Lokayukta counsel assured the court that the accused would not be arrested if they cooperated with the investigation. Accepting this submission, the bench directed that no coercive action should be taken as long as the petitioners cooperate with the inquiry.The petitioners' counsel argued that under the current BNSS framework, the procedure for handling private complaints required prior examination of the accused, and claimed that the investigation order violated established legal principles. They also contended that the complaint lacked specific details regarding the alleged illegal accumulation of wealth and should therefore be dismissed.

Satish Jarkiholi orders urgent lake filling to prevent water crisis

At disaster review meeting, Minister said drought-like conditions after a century; government and district administration prepared, CM sent him to assess and report issues

HAVERI

Public Works Minister and district in-charge Satish Jarkiholi has directed officials to start filling lakes immediately and take strong precautionary measures to handle the expected shortage of rain and drinking water in the coming months. He said that although the district has received good rainfall and crops are currently in good condition, a major water crisis may arise after two months if proper planning is not done.

Chairing a review meeting on disaster management at the District Collector's office, the Minister said the state is facing a rare situation of drought-like conditions after nearly a century. He added that the government and district administration are fully prepared to respond, and the Chief Minister has sent him to assess the situation and report key issues for immediate action.

He instructed irrigation and minor irrigation officials to begin lake-filling works using water from the Varada river without delay. He said storing water in lakes will help secure drinking water and protect livestock in the coming months. He also suggested that each Gram Panchayat should be provided with water tankers in a phased manner to handle emergency needs in rural areas.

The Minister asked officials to identify suitable locations for new barrages and prepare a detailed list for further planning. He also emphasized spreading awareness among farmers about integrated farming, soil health, and reducing excessive use of fertilizers like urea, which can damage soil fertility over time.Jarkiholi warned officials to avoid errors in crop insurance cases, especially mismatches that delay compensation or create irregular payments. He also directed the Agriculture Department to ensure sufficient fertilizer stocks are maintained in advance to avoid shortages if rainfall increases in the coming weeks.Officials were also asked to promote awareness about the VB-G Ramji employment and livelihood mission and ensure villagers understand its benefits. The Minister reviewed the Bedti–Varada river linking project and instructed departments to submit progress details.Deputy Commissioner Dr. Vijayamahantesh Danammanavara said the district has received uneven rainfall, affecting lake levels and water availability. Out of 2,182 lakes, many are partially filled, while a few remain full. Officials reported ongoing efforts to supply drinking water through borewells, tanker arrangements, and emergency projects, along with crop insurance registration and fodder availability measures to support farmers and livestock owners during the difficult season.

Minister urged VB-G Ramji employment, Gram Panchayat plans, job cards, and crop insurance awareness for farmers protection

Minister Patil directs urgent action for rain shortage preparedness

KOPPAL

Officials must prepare immediately to manage possible rain shortage during the ongoing monsoon season and ensure drinking water supply and employment opportunities for people, said Medical Education and Skill Development Minister and district in-charge Dr. Sharanaprakash R. Patil while chairing the District Disaster Management Committee meeting at the Deputy Commissioner's office hall.

He said that although the monsoon has begun, rainfall has been below expectations, affecting agricultural activities and creating concerns about drinking water availability in the coming days. He instructed departments to prepare action plans in advance so that citizens do not face hardship.

The Minister stressed the need to generate employment under the VB-G Ramji scheme if agricultural work reduces due to insufficient rainfall. He directed officials to prepare Gram Panchayat-wise work plans and ensure job cards are distributed to eligible beneficiaries without delay. He also asked the Agriculture Department to create awareness so that all eligible farmers register for crop insurance to protect themselves from potential losses.

Dr. Patil instructed officials to prioritize drinking water supply using government funds, including renting private borewells, supplying water through tankers, and drilling new borewells wherever necessary. He said water management must be handled carefully to avoid a crisis situation.

He also directed officials to ensure availability of seeds and fertilizers as per farmer demand and warned against artificial scarcity. He said strict action must be taken against shops selling fake seeds, substandard fertilizers, or charging excess prices. He added that inspections must be conducted regularly to prevent violations and ensure transparency in agricultural input distribution.The Minister said the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls must be completed properly before the July 29 deadline. He instructed officials to ensure enumeration forms are collected and verified, and to identify migrated and deceased voters. He also asked for helplines at gram panchayat level to address public complaints.

Deputy Commissioner Dr. Suresh B. Itnal said the district administration is fully prepared for disaster management. He informed that compensation has been provided for loss of life, livestock deaths, and damaged houses, and assured that there is no shortage of funds for drinking water supply.

Officials also reported that rainfall is 31 percent below normal, with only 47 percent sowing completed, while fertilizer stock remains sufficient in the district to support ongoing agricultural needs during the challenging season.

They also contended that the complaint lacked specific details regarding the alleged illegal accumulation of wealth and should therefore be dismissed.

However, the Lokayukta's counsel opposed the plea, stating that the special court had acted within its jurisdiction and that the investigation order was legally valid. After hearing both sides, the High Court dismissed the petition, allowing the investigation to proceed.The case originates from allegations that after K.S. Eshwarappa became a minister in 2006, his family allegedly acquired significant movable and immovable assets, including investments in educational institutions and businesses.

Satyappa reacts to ram temple donation theft

HUNSUR

Satyappa of Satya MAS Foundation has spoken about reports of theft of donation money linked to Ram temple funds. He said it is very sad and the country feels ashamed about such claims.

There are claims that temple staff in Hunsur Ram temple misused hundi donations and lived a luxurious life. It is said that the amount involved may be more than five hundred crores according to reports.

He added that many people gave bricks, rangoli decorations and prayers for building the Ram temple with devotion. Earlier Rath Yatra and national support under leaders like Advani and Vajpayee showed deep public faith.

Now the alleged theft has caused anger across the country and protests demanding action against those responsible. The Ayodhya Bar Association has reportedly decided to fine lawyers representing the accused five lakh rupees. People are asking for accountability from the Prime Minister and the Union Home Minister regarding this issue.

Officials must follow EC guidelines strictly says DC

Kolar

Deputy Commissioner Dr. M.R. Ravi has issued strict instructions to Booth Level Officers to carry out house-to-house visits for the ongoing Special Intensive Revision work in the district. He directed that all officials must strictly follow Election Commission guidelines during the census process.The Deputy Commissioner said it is mandatory for BLOs to visit every household, distribute prescribed census forms, and collect signatures from concerned voters. He emphasized that no shortcuts should be taken in the exercise, as it is directly linked to the accuracy of the electoral roll. Officials noted that some BLOs were reportedly collecting information in public places or in groups instead of visiting individual homes. Taking serious note of this, the Deputy Commissioner warned that such practices must not be repeated.

Nikhil raises fresh questions over voter revision process

JD(S) leader alleged officials influenced in elections, citing irregularities, and urged Ramanagara residents to protect fairness

RAMANAGARA

JD(S) youth leader Nikhil Kumaraswamy has alleged serious irregularities in the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the electoral roll in Ramanagara and demanded an independent inquiry into the process. Addressing reporters, he claimed that voter list revision was not being carried out according to the prescribed rules and urged authorities to ensure complete transparency.

Nikhil alleged that officials had misled Booth Level Agent-2 representatives during a recent meeting and claimed that the SIR exercise was being conducted improperly in several areas, including Tipu Nagar, Yarab Nagar, and Mehboob Nagar. He said party workers had collected video evidence after visiting these localities and alleged that an atmosphere of fear had been created during the revision process.

Questioning the role of district officials, Nikhil said the voter revision should be conducted with representatives of all major political parties present during the distribution of forms. He claimed the guidelines requiring door-to-door visits were not being followed properly. He also criticised the District Commissioner, alleging that established procedures were being ignored. He further questioned the officer's absence during the controversy and demanded accountability from the administration.

The JD(S) leader also accused some local political leaders of influencing Booth Level Officers and alleged that pressure was being placed on officials. Referring to previous elections, he claimed that electoral irregularities had affected the democratic process. He urged residents of Ramanagara to remain alert and protect the fairness of future elections.

Nikhil called on Congress leader Rahul Gandhi to visit Karnataka and personally review the voter revision exercise. He said he was prepared to take the issue to New Delhi and hold a press conference in English to explain the allegations before national leaders. He also criticised the state government over its development projects and questioned its priorities.

Demanding immediate action, Nikhil urged the State Election Commission to withdraw the recent SIR process conducted at a local venue and order a fresh exercise in 35 sensitive polling stations. He said all video evidence would be submitted to the State Election Commission and the Chief Electoral Officer.

He added that stronger monitoring would help maintain public confidence in the electoral process.

Magadi MLA expresses hope over ministerial berth prospects

Balakrishna said voters want him as minister, supports D.K. Shivakumar as CM, and Delhi leaders assured his request is under consideration

MAGADI

Magadi MLA H.C. Balakrishna said that the decision to appoint him as a minister rests entirely with the party high command, while expressing confidence that a suitable decision will be taken soon. He spoke to reporters after inspecting various development works in Dodda Somanahalli village of the taluk.

Balakrishna said the people of the constituency had elected him as their representative and had also expressed their wish to see him become a minister. He recalled that he had always wanted D.K. Shivakumar to become the Chief Minister and believed the aspirations of party workers and voters should also be respected. He added that he recently visited Delhi and discussed the matter with national party leaders, who assured him that his request was being considered.

Speaking about missing out on a ministerial position despite winning five consecutive Assembly elections, Balakrishna admitted he felt disappointed. At the same time, he said he was proud of the trust shown by the people. He described five successive victories as a rare achievement in today's political climate and said it reflected the strong support he had received from voters over the years.

The MLA said whether he becomes a minister or not depends on destiny, but he would continue working sincerely for the welfare of the constituency. He promised to repay the faith placed in him by ensuring development and addressing the needs of the people.

Responding to questions about the proposed protest march over the Bidadi Town Shift issue, Balakrishna said local leaders had decided not to organise the march for now. He explained that the advantages and disadvantages of the project would be studied carefully before taking any further decision.

He also said compensation was being distributed to farmers whose lands had already been notified for acquisition. Payments to farmers in the remaining villages would begin after the final notification process is completed. According to him, nearly 70 to 80 percent of the affected people are supporting the government's efforts. He declined to respond to opposition criticism, saying an appropriate reply would be given at the right time.

Dr Praveen Bagewadi said voter registration is a right and responsibility, aiming to include all eligible citizens

KOLAR HOSTS MASSIVE VOTER AWARENESS CYCLE RALLY

large cycle rally was organised in Kolar on Friday to create public awareness about the Special Comprehensive Revision of the Voters List-2026. The programme was jointly organised by the District Administration, Zilla Panchayat and the District SVEEP Committee to encourage people to participate actively in the democratic process.

The awareness rally began from the IB at Bangarpet Circle in Kolar city. District Collector Dr. M. R. Ravi, Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officer Dr. Praveen P. Bagewadi and other senior officials flagged off the event. Officers, staff members and representatives from different government departments joined the rally with great enthusiasm.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr. Ravi said democracy becomes stronger when every eligible citizen takes part in elections. He urged all qualified voters to register their names, make necessary corrections and verify their details in the voters list. He added that every citizen should use this opportunity and become a responsible voter.

Dr. Praveen P. Bagewadi said registering in the voters list is both a fundamental right and an important responsibility. He explained that the main aim of the campaign is to spread awareness and ensure every eligible citizen is included in the electoral roll.

Officials from district and taluk departments, along with municipal officers and staff, participated in the cycle rally. Throughout the event, participants educated the public about voter registration, corrections and verification procedures.

The rally delivered a strong message on the importance of voting and encouraged citizens to take part in strengthening democracy through active electoral participation across the district.

Activist Puneeth Kerehalli arrested over clerics allegation

HASSAN

Pro-Hindu activist Puneeth Kerehalli was arrested by the Kumaraswamy Layout Police on Friday following a complaint accusing him of insulting Muslim clerics. Police said the action was taken after a complaint filed by Abdul Razak, and further investigation into the case is continuing.

According to police, officers visited Kerehalli village in Alur taluk, where Puneeth Kerehalli was staying, and took him into custody. During the arrest, he allegedly criticised the state government and claimed that he had been unfairly targeted. Authorities have not announced further details regarding the investigation or any additional charges.

Speaking during the arrest, Puneeth Kerehalli claimed that his life was under threat and said he had earlier filed a complaint against Abdul Razak. He questioned why action had been taken only against him and alleged that the Congress government had misused its power. He also claimed that a conspiracy had been planned against him.

The arrest drew emotional scenes at his residence as his mother broke down in tears while police escorted him away.

Videos capturing the incident quickly spread across social media, attracting widespread public attention and reactions.

Students urged to aim for high achievements

GAJENDRAGAD

Annadaneshwar PU College in Gajendragad held the Virat-2026 programme to welcome first year PUC students and start social activities on Friday. Chairman Veeraiah V Vastra said students must develop a strong desire for achievement and build regular study habits to succeed in life. He told students not to give up after making decisions and to keep working continuously and follow teachers lessons with understanding and focus.

Basavanthappa Hosalli Principal of Government Degree College said students should set clear goals and work hard with dedication honesty and discipline.

New children's film inspires values through meaningful stories

CHITRADURGA

The muhurat ceremony of the Kannada children's film "Apratima" was held at the Madakari Mahaganapathi Temple near Rangaiah Gate on Friday, marking the official beginning of a project aimed at promoting moral values and social awareness among children. Magadi MLA K.C. Veerendra Pappi launched the film by giving the ceremonial clap and wished the entire team success.

Speaking at the event, the MLA said that films carrying positive messages are essential in today's society. He noted that children learn many values through visual storytelling and said quality films can help develop discipline, responsibility, kindness, and respect for others. He expressed hope that "Apratima" would become a meaningful addition to Kannada cinema and provide young artists with an opportunity to display their talent.

Former Chairman of the Chitradurga Urban Development Authority R.K. Sardar said children's films play an important role in encouraging creativity and building self-confidence. He urged people to support meaningful cinema that helps shape responsible citizens and creates a positive influence on society.

Film director Devaratna Manju said the movie is being made at a time when many children are spending increasing amounts of time on mobile phones and social media. He explained that the story focuses on important values such as education, humanity, discipline, environmental protection, respect for parents, and the importance of government schools. Along with entertainment, the film aims to inspire children to become responsible members of society.

District President of the Karnataka State Education Council, Malatesh Urs, said both education and cinema are powerful tools for social change. He stressed the need for more films that encourage moral values and help children develop strong personalities.

Several leaders, members of the film team, child artists, and well-wishers attended the ceremony and extended their best wishes.

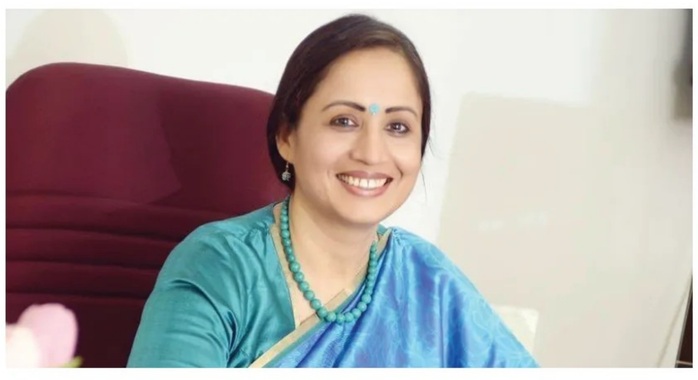
Water and power saving secures future generations life: Shalini Rajneesh

BANGALORE



Conserving water and electricity is essential for a safe and sustainable future, Chief Secretary to the Government Dr. Shalini Rajneesh said, stressing that responsible use of natural resources must become a daily habit for every citizen. She said saving water directly supports saving electricity, as a large share of power is used in pumping, treating, and supplying water.

She explained that although nearly 70 percent of the earth is covered with water, only about 2 percent is suitable for drinking. With rising population, pollution, and careless usage, freshwater scarcity is becoming a global concern. She added that climate changes such as El Nino are disturbing rainfall patterns, leading to floods in some regions and drought in others, which is also affecting agriculture and food production.

Dr. Rajneesh said water is essential for life, farming, industries, and ecosystems. Rapid urban growth and climate pressure are increasing demand, making conservation unavoidable. She urged people to value every drop and adopt simple practices such as fixing leaks immediately, turning off taps while not in use, and using buckets instead of showers wherever possible.

She also highlighted rainwater harvesting as an important method for homes, schools, offices, and public buildings. Reusing treated water for gardening and cleaning, adopting drip irrigation in agriculture, and protecting lakes, rivers, and groundwater sources were strongly recommended. She said planting trees also helps improve groundwater levels and ecological balance.

On electricity conservation, she said most power is generated using coal, which increases pollution and global warming. Saving electricity reduces environmental damage, lowers costs, and improves energy security. She advised switching off unused appliances, using LED bulbs, maintaining air conditioners at moderate temperatures, and encouraging solar energy use.

She suggested awareness programmes in schools, colleges, and offices, including pledges, street plays, posters, and conservation campaigns. Regular energy audits and community participation were also encouraged.

Dr. Rajneesh added that hydropower depends on water availability, so water shortage also reduces electricity production. She appealed to citizens to adopt responsible habits and said collective efforts today will ensure prosperity, sustainability, and a better quality of life for future generations through conscious conservation and shared responsibility.

Government launches Kempegowda Fort revival work

Kempegowda Development Authority project worth 103 crores begins first phase of 62 crores with MLA H C Balakrishna support

MAGADI

Bamul President H N Ashok said the government is committed to developing Kempegowda Fort, lake, katte and kalyani forts in Magadi.

Speaking after performing guddi puja for renovation work at Kempegowda Fort he said bhoomi puja was held for revival of historic fort built by Nadaprabhu Kempegowda.

The project worth one hundred and three crores under Kempegowda Development Authority has started first phase costing sixty two crores with support from leaders and MLA H C Balakrishna.

It includes rebuilding stone walls, walking track around fort and future plans for Kempegowda statue, gardens and heritage development to preserve history and attract visitors.

Officials said work will be completed within one year and contractors are instructed not to delay due to weather, ensuring timely completion for public benefit.

Government has approved protection and development works and a large information flex will be displayed soon for public awareness about the project phases.

Second phase will focus on moat development and historical presentation of Kempegowda era structures for future generations.

Leaders and officials attended the programme and praised efforts to restore the historic monument for cultural heritage.

Officials added that preservation of Kempegowda heritage is important for cultural identity and tourism growth in the region. Public cooperation is essential for maintaining cleanliness and protecting historical structures around the fort area. Authorities urged citizens to support development work and respect the timelines set by the government. We will finish remaining words carefully to reach exact required count while concluding article properly. Project aims to bring back historic pride of Magadi and improve infrastructure for visitors and local residents.

Rajput Welfare group seeks development board

KOPPAL

The Koppal District Rajput Welfare Association has submitted a memorandum to the Chief Minister through the District Collector, urging the immediate establishment of a Rajput Development Board in the state. The association said the move is needed for the educational and social progress of the community. The representatives stated that the Rajput community, which has a population of lakhs in Karnataka, continues to face economic, educational, and employment challenges. They said lack of guidance and support has kept many youths away from the mainstream development process.They also noted that a family survey and digital registration exercise conducted under the Kalaburagi district administration has been completed successfully, and the data report is currently under review by the Backward Classes Welfare Commission in Bengaluru.

Doctors urge trust, healthy habits among children

PAVAGADA

Children should be taught that doctors are friends and not enemies, said paediatrician Dr. Ajay during the Doctors' Day programme held at Akshaya Blue Gem School in the town under the Seva Trust. He urged parents and teachers not to frighten children by saying they will receive injections, and instead build trust and comfort around medical care.

Dr. Ajay said that children should be encouraged to eat healthy food and avoid junk food and bakery items. He explained that good eating habits from childhood can prevent many health problems and reduce the need for frequent hospital visits. He stressed that mothers play an important role in shaping children's health by providing nutritious food and a positive attitude towards doctors.

Government hospital gynaecologist Dr. Babu said that while doctors work hard to treat patients, they sometimes face criticism from patients' relatives. He said it was encouraging that Seva Trust recognised and honoured doctors on National Doctors' Day, which boosts their morale and respect for service.

Government hospital administrative officer Dr. Ganesh spoke about the history of National Doctors' Day, recalling the contributions of Dr. B.C. Roy, who served both as a doctor and Chief Minister of West Bengal. He said celebrating his legacy reminds society of the importance of medical service.

Centre assures support to tackle human-elephant conflict

Centre extends support under Project Elephant, plans regional action for human-elephant conflict in Kodagu, focusing on habitats, corridors, warnings, response systems and community participation

MADIKERI

The Union Government has assured support for addressing the growing human-elephant conflict in Kodagu district following a representation made by Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar to the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change.

In a statement, the MP said the assurance came after he met Union Environment, Forest and Climate Change Minister Bhupender Yadav on June 11 and highlighted the hardships faced by farmers, plantation owners and residents living along forest fringes in Kodagu due to frequent elephant incursions.

According to the ministry, financial assistance is being extended to states under centrally sponsored schemes, including Project Elephant and wildlife habitat development programmes. The Centre is also preparing a regional action plan to address human-elephant conflict across southern India, with Kodagu identified as one of the priority conflict zones.

The proposed strategy includes habitat improvement, protection and management of elephant corridors, strengthening early warning systems, establishing rapid response mechanisms and encouraging active community participation to minimise conflict.

For Karnataka, a five-year action plan with an estimated outlay of ₹350 crore is being prepared. The initiative aims to facilitate the safe movement of elephants through designated corridors while reducing their entry into human settlements and agricultural fields, thereby minimising loss of life, crop damage and property destruction.

The Indian Institute of Wildlife is also expected to undertake studies using satellite telemetry and community-based communication systems to develop advanced early warning mechanisms for elephant movement in southern India. Based on the findings, a dedicated alert system may be introduced in Kodagu.

Welcoming the Centre's response, MP Yaduveer said long-term solutions require coordinated efforts by the Union and state governments, the Forest Department and local communities. He reaffirmed his commitment to ensuring that the concerns of farmers and residents affected by human-elephant conflict in Kodagu receive priority and effective intervention.

Meena urged timely, transparent Pauth Account Movement and strict Sakala compliance, holding officials accountable for delays

Alternative farming push urged amid drought crisis

MANDYA

Farmers must be made aware of alternative crops to reduce losses caused by delayed monsoon and drought conditions, said Revenue Department Secretary (Disaster Management, Registration and Stamps and Social Security) and Mandya district incharge Secretary Manoj Kumar Meena during a review meeting held at the Zilla Panchayat hall.

He said the district administration is already implementing several measures, including alternative crop planning, sowing guidance, fodder supply for livestock, crop insurance awareness, and support for farmers through various welfare schemes. He instructed Agriculture Department officials to ensure that all eligible farmers register for crop insurance so that maximum beneficiaries receive timely protection under the scheme.

Meena also stressed that the Pauth Account Movement process must be completed without delay and in a transparent manner. He added that the Sakala scheme, which ensures time-bound delivery of public services, must be strictly followed, and any delay in processing applications will make concerned officials accountable.

He further informed that the Special Comprehensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls began on June 30 and will continue until July 29. Booth Level Officers have been instructed to conduct door-to-door visits, raise awareness, and assist citizens in submitting Enumeration forms. He also noted that Mandya district has around 15 lakh voters, and online submission of SIR forms has been made available for public convenience.

Deputy Commissioner Dr. Kumar said the district is facing nearly 28 percent rainfall deficit, affecting agricultural operations. Water shortage has impacted sowing of crops such as alasande, togari, and other pulses and oilseeds. He also noted that the Krishnarajasagara (KRS) dam, a major water source for farmers, has recorded a significant drop in water level, forcing authorities to prioritize drinking water supply over irrigation.

He added that the Agriculture Department is actively promoting alternative crops that require less water to reduce farmers' financial burden. Officials have been asked to prepare a detailed report on suitable crop options.

Zilla Panchayat CEO K.R. Nandini said around 289 villages may face drinking water shortage, with tanker supply and borewell support being arranged as precautionary measures. Groundwater levels are being monitored, and helpdesks have been set up for public complaints. Officials were also directed to maintain RO water units properly to ensure safe drinking water supply across rural areas, especially during the summer season.

Gadag Organises voter awareness rally for Electoral roll revision drive

GADAG

A voter awareness rally was organised in Gadag as part of the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the 2026 electoral rolls, with district officials urging citizens to actively participate in ensuring a complete and accurate voters' list. The rally was flagged off by Deputy Commissioner and District SVEEP Committee Chairman C.N. Sridhar at the Municipal High School premises on Friday.

Addressing the gathering, Sridhar said India is the world's largest democracy, where the power to elect representatives rests entirely with eligible voters. He stressed that no eligible citizen should be left out of the electoral roll and called upon the public to cooperate with Booth Level Officers (BLOs) during the ongoing verification process.

He explained that the Special Intensive Revision is conducted periodically to verify existing voter records, identify eligible new voters, and prepare an updated and transparent electoral roll. Since June 30, BLOs have been visiting households across the district to collect and verify voter information. Citizens were requested to provide the required details and submit the prescribed forms promptly.

District Panchayat Chief Planning Officer and District Nodal Officer for the revision, A.A. Kambalimath, said free and fair elections depend on an accurate electoral roll. He urged young voters, families, and community members to check whether their names are included in the voters' list and ensure necessary corrections or additions are made without delay.

The awareness rally witnessed participation from officials of various government departments, including education, social welfare, tourism, minority welfare, youth empowerment, and sports. Students, staff members, and members of the public also joined the event to spread awareness about voter registration and electoral participation.

District authorities reiterated that public cooperation is essential to achieve a comprehensive and error-free electoral roll. The campaign aims to strengthen democratic participation by ensuring every eligible citizen gets an opportunity to exercise the constitutional right to vote in future elections.

CRIME PREVENTION DRIVE

CCTV surveillance made mandatory for commercial establishments

GANGAVATHI

The Police Department has urged traders and the public to strengthen security measures under the Public Safety Act, making the installation of CCTV cameras and other safety systems mandatory for commercial establishments to help prevent crime.

Speaking at a Public Safety Act awareness programme organised at the community hall of Sri Eeranna Devara Temple near CBS Circle, Deputy Superintendent of Police J. S. Nyamagoudar said public cooperation is essential for effective crime prevention and investigation.

He said police have been successful in solving several criminal cases within hours of their occurrence, but greater participation from business owners and citizens is necessary to improve public safety. He appealed to traders to follow police advisories and adopt adequate security measures to safeguard their establishments.

The DySP stressed that every commercial outlet should install CCTV cameras, alarm systems and other security devices. He noted that advanced surveillance cameras can now be monitored through mobile phones, making it easier for business owners to keep track of their premises even when they are away.

Town Police Inspector Prakash R. Yatanur announced that traders operating along the city's main roads would be required to install CCTV cameras within 15 days. He said the move is intended to enhance surveillance, assist investigations and deter criminal activities in busy commercial areas.

Police officials also advised traders to ensure that surveillance cameras remain functional at all times and retain footage for a reasonable period to assist law enforcement whenever required.

BJP workers urged to strengthen Special Electoral Revision Process

KO. SHIVAPURA

BJP workers have been urged to actively participate in the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the electoral rolls to ensure that every eligible voter is included and the voters' list remains accurate and updated. The appeal was made by BJP Mandal President Virupaksha Mamani during a meeting organised at Hiremath in Ko. Shivapura.

Addressing party workers, Mamani stressed the importance of identifying eligible voters, facilitating new enrolments, correcting errors in existing records and ensuring that no qualified voter is left out of the electoral process. He said the success of the Special Intensive Revision depends on the active involvement of grassroots workers who can assist citizens during the verification and correction process.

The meeting also focused on strengthening the party organisation at the village level. Senior workers shared suggestions and guidance on improving coordination among party members and ensuring effective implementation of organisational activities.

A Division Bench of Chief Justice Soumen Sen and Justice Syam Kumar disposed of the Public Interest Litigation after taking note of a detailed status report filed by the state government, which outlined the progress made in the investigation.

Punjab Congress Infighting Deepens Amid Organizational Revamp Before Elections

Internal divisions intensified in Punjab Congress as senior leaders voiced dissatisfaction following the party's organizational restructuring before elections

NEW DELHI

Political tensions within the Punjab Congress escalated on Friday as senior party leader and Member of Parliament Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa met Union Home Minister Amit Shah amid growing dissent over the party's recent organizational overhaul ahead of the state Assembly elections. The meeting fueled speculation about internal differences within the Congress, although Randhawa clarified that the discussion had been scheduled well in advance and focused solely on the deteriorating law and order situation in Punjab.

Addressing the media after the meeting, Randhawa stated that he had previously written to the Prime Minister on June 4, 2026, expressing concerns about the worsening security situation in the state and had also sent a copy of the letter to the Union Home Minister. During Friday's meeting, he submitted a detailed memorandum highlighting the rise in gangster-related crimes, particularly in Gurdaspur and other border districts, urging the central government to take appropriate action.

Responding to questions regarding a meeting convened by former Punjab Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi, Randhawa acknowledged that the current situation reflected dissatisfaction within the party.

He remarked that despite numerous discussions regarding the organizational restructuring, the fact that many leaders remained unhappy was unfortunate and indicated unresolved concerns within the state unit.

The organizational revamp has triggered visible divisions among senior Congress leaders, with several influential figures reportedly expressing disappointment over appointments to key party positions. The internal disagreements have emerged at a crucial time as the Congress prepares its strategy for the upcoming Punjab Assembly elections.

Adding to the political drama, Union Minister Ravneet Singh Bittu criticized Punjab Congress President Amarinder Singh Raja Warring by drawing a humorous comparison with a famous scene from the classic film Sholay. Referring to the movie's comic jailor character, Bittu suggested that Raja Warring had been left politically isolated as many of his close associates had shifted their support toward Charanjit Singh Channi. In a lighthearted remark, he advised Warring to stop resisting the changing political dynamics and join Channi along with other party colleagues.

The meeting called by Channi witnessed the participation of several prominent Congress leaders, including former Deputy Chief Minister O.P. Soni, former ministers Tript Rajinder Singh Bajwa, Sukhbinder Singh Sarkaria, Gurpreet Singh Kangar, Bharat Bhushan Ashu, and Gurkirat Singh Kotli. Former Member of Parliament Mohammad Sadiq was also among those present, reflecting Channi's continued influence within the party. The unrest intensified further after senior Congress Member of Parliament Manish Tewari publicly expressed disappointment over being excluded from newly constituted party committees and leadership appointments.

Have been assured of justice at the earliest : Bharat Tiwari's family on Chirag Paswan's visit

BHOJPUR

After Union Minister Chirag Paswan on Friday met the family members of student and local activist Bharat Tiwari, who was killed in police action, the latter's family members said that the LJP (Ram Vilas) chief has assured them that the perpetrators will be punished at the earliest and that the world will be a witness to the justice.Following his meeting with the family earlier in the day, Paswan condemned the circumstances surrounding his death, saying the role of administrative officers in the incident was completely unacceptable in a civilised society.Reacting to the Union Minister's visit, Bharat Tiwari's father, Kashinath Tiwari, said: I spoke to him (Paswan). The conversation went very well. He has assured that within two to three days, all the killers who have committed the crime will be punished.

CBI Files Thirteenth Chargesheet in Greater Noida Housing Fraud

NEW DELHI

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on Friday filed its thirteenth chargesheet in an ongoing investigation into an alleged large-scale housing fraud involving homebuyers in Greater Noida. The latest chargesheet names Rudra Buildwell Projects Private Limited and one of its directors, accusing them of cheating homebuyers and investors through fraudulent practices associated with a residential housing project.

According to the investigating agency, the builder company and its director were allegedly involved in a criminal conspiracy to mislead prospective buyers by making false promises and deceptive representations regarding the housing project. The CBI stated that the accused allegedly persuaded innocent homebuyers and investors to invest substantial amounts of money by offering misleading assurances about project completion, timely delivery, and other commitments.

The Central Bureau of Investigation intensified its housing fraud probe by filing another chargesheet against a real estate developer

The agency alleged that the accused dishonestly obtained financial benefits while causing significant monetary losses to homebuyers who had invested their savings with the expectation of receiving residential properties.

Investigators said they gathered substantial documentary and material evidence during the course of the probe, which formed the basis for filing the latest chargesheet before the competent court.

The chargesheet has been submitted under various provisions of the Indian Penal Code relating to criminal conspiracy, cheating, and criminal breach of trust. The court will now examine the evidence presented by the investigating agency before proceeding with further legal action against the accused.

The case forms part of a much larger investigation being conducted by the CBI into alleged irregularities in the real estate sector. Acting on directions issued by the Supreme Court, the agency is currently investigating 36 additional cases involving several builder companies and unidentified officials of banks and financial institutions.

These cases relate to allegations that funds collected from homebuyers for residential projects were diverted or misused, resulting in financial hardship for thousands of affected purchasers.

Delhi Police Bust Interstate Gambling Syndicate, Twenty-One Arrested

NEW DELHI

The Anti Auto Theft Squad (AATS) of the Delhi Police has uncovered an alleged interstate gambling syndicate operating in the Shahdara district of the national capital, leading to the arrest of 21 people during a carefully planned raid. Police officials said the operation was carried out following specific intelligence inputs and forms part of an intensified campaign against organized gambling activities in the district.

According to an official statement, the operation was conducted under the leadership of Inspector Prateek Saxena, who heads the Anti Auto Theft Squad in Shahdara. The team worked under the close supervision of Assistant Commissioner of Police Mohinder Singh and the overall guidance of the Deputy Commissioner of Police for Shahdara District. Officers were deployed in plain clothes to gather local intelligence and monitor suspected illegal gambling operations.

Investigators said that on July 1, a member of the police team received credible information that a large-scale gambling session was underway at a house located in West Nathu Colony. Acting swiftly, the police organized a raid on the premises and entered the second floor of the building, where they allegedly found 21 individuals participating in illegal gambling activities.Among those arrested were 16 men and five women..

J&K CRIME BRANCH FILES CHARGE SHEET IN FAKE JOBS, FORGED VISAS CASE

SRINAGAR

J&K Crime Branch said on Friday that it has filed a charge sheet against an educational consultancy operator in a fake jobs and forged visas fraud case involving lakhs of rupees.

The Economic Offences Wing (EOW), Kashmir, Crime Branch, J&K, has filed a charge sheet in FIR No. 67/2021 under Sections 420, 468 and 471 RPC against Fayaz Ahmad Zargar, son of Mohd. Shafi Zarger, resident of Qutub Din Pora, Aali Kadal, Jamia Masjid, Srinagar, before the court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Srinagar, for offences of cheating and forgery, a Crime Branch statement said.

The case was registered on the basis of a written complaint alleging that the accused, who was operating M/s HR Choice International Education Consultancy, Karanagar, Srinagar, lured the complainant with false promises of securing a job in Bahrain.

During the investigation, it was revealed that the accused had similarly duped the complainant and several other persons, collected lakhs of rupees from them, and provided forged job offer letters, visas, air tickets and other fabricated documents.

To lend credibility to the scheme, the victims were made to undergo online interviews, medical examinations, and execute agreements.

OM BIRLA STATEMENT

Finding solutions should be the goal of ideal Assembly: Om Birla

KOLKATA

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla on Friday stated that, in addition to engaging in meaningful discussions and recognising issues, the primary objective of any ideal state Assembly should be to devise solutions for prevailing problems.

The Lok Sabha Speaker said this at the inauguration of a two-day orientation programme for the newly elected Legislators in the West Bengal Assembly.

Common people have lots of hopes and expectations from a legislator. The role of an MLA, existing laws and the hopes and conditions of the people are all linked to the development of the state. So, an ideal Assembly is the place where solutions are sought, discussions are held, and problems are addressed. All old discussions and debates should be read and studied thoroughly, he said.

Speaking on the occasion, he also advised the newly elected legislators to concentrate on information-based discussions during various sessions of the state Assembly, besides engaging in the never-ending learning process.

You should discuss issues and topics based on the information. You should lead your team and the nation through that. You have to learn and learn more. You should have the desire to learn. The effort to learn should always continue.

You should learn to do something new for the benefit of the people of the Assembly constituency you represent, the Lok Sabha Speaker said.

He also advised the newly elected MLAs to focus on digital learning to keep themselves updated on national and international developments.

This is the digital world and an era of artificial intelligence. Now everything is available in one place. If you wish, you can also study the budget proposals of other countries. Stay in the Assembly as long as you can. As long as you stay in the Assembly, you will learn something new. Your interest will increase.

CBI conducts searches in Odisha, Rajasthan in digital arrest scam

New Delhi

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) conducted searches at seven locations across Odisha and Rajasthan and arrested three accused, as part of its investigation into a Rs 2.07-crore 'digital arrest' scam in which a retired public servant was allegedly coerced into transferring funds under the threat of fabricated legal action, a statement said on Friday. According to the agency statement, the searches were conducted on June 30 in connection with the case, which is being investigated pursuant to directions of the Punjab and Haryana High Court. The CBI had registered the case on March 25 after allegations surfaced that cyber fraudsters posing as law enforcement and regulatory officials had intimidated a retired government employee into transferring Rs 2.07 crore through a series of transactions.

Racket of sale of food with manipulated expiry date busted in Delhi

New Delhi

In a major breakthrough, Delhi Police has busted a highly organised and systematic racket allegedly involved in manipulation of expiry dates and repackaging of expired international branded food products for sale and arrested seven accused, officials said on Friday. Food items worth more than Rs. 20 lakh have been seized by investigators. A police statement said that the operation was conducted by a team of Okhla Industrial Area Police Station, led by Inspector Anil Malik, under the supervision of ACP Anil Sharma, and under the overall guidance of DCP Dr Hemant Tiwari, who directed sustained, intelligence-driven action to dismantle the entire criminal network.

PM Modi to Launch Massive Rajasthan Infrastructure Development Projects

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will unveil major infrastructure projects worth over one lakh crore rupees during his Rajasthan visit

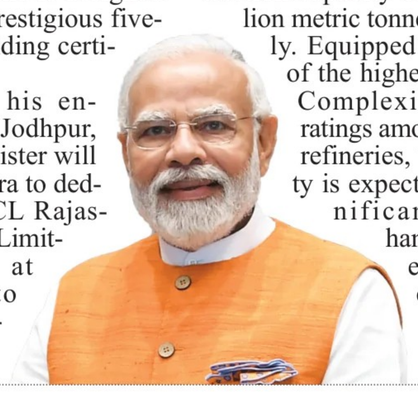
NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is scheduled to visit Rajasthan on Saturday to inaugurate, dedicate, and lay the foundation stone for development projects valued at approximately Rs 1.06 lakh crore. The projects span multiple sectors, including petrochemicals, urban transport, railways, roads, aviation, renewable energy, and power transmission, reflecting the government's focus on strengthening infrastructure and accelerating economic growth across the state.

The Prime Minister's visit will begin in Jodhpur, where he will inaugurate the newly constructed terminal building at Jodhpur Airport and officially launch the Modified UDAN Scheme. The revamped regional connectivity programme has been allocated Rs 28,840 crore over the next decade with the objective of expanding air connectivity to underserved regions across the country.

Under the modified scheme, the government plans to develop 100 aerodromes using existing unserved airstrips, establish 200 helipads, and continue providing viability gap funding to airlines operating on regional routes. The initiative also seeks to promote the use of indigenous aircraft and helicopters, including platforms developed by Hindustan Aeronautics Limited, in line with the government's vision of enhancing domestic manufacturing and self-reliance in the aviation sector.

The new terminal at Jodhpur Airport has been developed at a cost of Rs 480 crore and covers more than 23,000 square metres. Designed to accommodate up to 20 lakh passengers annually, the facility combines modern passenger amenities with architectural elements inspired by Rajasthan's cultural heritage. The terminal also incorporates environmentally sustainable features and is designed to achieve a prestigious five-star green building certification.



Following his engagements in Jodhpur, the Prime Minister will travel to Balotra to dedicate the HPCL Rajasthan Refinery Limited complex at Pachpadra to the nation. Developed as a joint venture between Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited and the Government of Rajasthan, the integrated refinery-cum-petrochemical project has been established with an investment exceeding Rs 79,450 crore.

The refinery has a processing capacity of 9 million metric tonnes per annum and an integrated petrochemical production capacity of 2.4 million metric tonnes annually. Equipped with one of the highest Nelson Complexity Index ratings among Indian refineries, the facility is expected to significantly enhance India's energy security, reduce dependence on imported petrochemical products, encourage downstream industrial development, and generate substantial employment opportunities across the region.

The Prime Minister will also lay the foundation stone for the second phase of the Jaipur Metro Rail Project, estimated to cost more than Rs 13,000 crore.

The proposed 41-kilometre north-south corridor will include 36 stations connecting major residential, industrial, commercial, and institutional areas, including Jaipur Airport, Sitapura Industrial Area, Vishwakarma Industrial Area, Tonk Road, and SMS Hospital.

The project is expected to improve urban mobility and reduce traffic congestion in the state capital.

RSS Flags Bid To Defame, Divide Hindus; Hopes Justice Will Be Done

NEW DELHI

The Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) on Friday cautioned the Hindu community to exercise restraint and not get misled by anti-national forces using the Ram Temple donation theft to defame the religion and society.

RSS general secretary Dattatreya Hosabale, in a statement, called for unity among Hindus in this difficult moment to thwart the conspiracies of anti-Hindu forces aiming to exploit this unfortunate incident in Ayodhya.

He said, The unfortunate incident of theft of funds deposited in donation boxes at the Shri Ram Lalla Temple in Ayodhya has hurt the sentiments and faith of the entire community and Ram devotees, and we are all deeply saddened by this incident.

At the request of the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust, the Uttar Pradesh government has constituted a special investigation team and initiated the legal process based on its recommendations, he said.

Jharkhand Minister Returns Entire Security Cover Over Official Dispute

RANCHI

Jharkhand Finance Minister Radha Krishna Kishore surrendered his security cover after police declined his request for an additional vehicle

Jharkhand Finance Minister Radha Krishna Kishore has returned his entire official security cover in a rare move expressing dissatisfaction with the functioning of the state police department. The Congress leader, who serves in the Jharkhand government, took the decision after his request for an additional vehicle to facilitate the movement of his security personnel was reportedly not approved.

As part of his decision, the Minister returned all 16 security personnel assigned to his protection along with the three government vehicles that had been deployed for security duties. The development has drawn considerable political attention, with the Minister subsequently attending official engagements in Ranchi without any police escort or security convoy.

According to official sources, Kishore had recently written to the Director General of Police requesting one more vehicle for his security team. He explained that although 16 personnel had been assigned for his protection, the existing vehicles were insufficient to accommodate them comfortably. As a result, security staff were allegedly forced to travel in overcrowded conditions, making the existing arrangement both impractical and ineffective.

Sources familiar with the matter said that no decision was taken on the Minister's request. Instead, the police headquarters reportedly communicated with his personal secretary regarding the withdrawal of one of the vehicles already allotted for his security arrangement. The reported response appears to have prompted the Minister to return the entire security deployment.

In his communication to the police authorities, Kishore described the prevailing situation as embarrassing and stated that the existing arrangement did not serve its intended purpose. He maintained that an effective security system should be practical, well-organized, and capable of ensuring adequate protection without unnecessary inconvenience to security personnel.

On Friday, the Minister attended a public function at Khelgaon Stadium before visiting the Project Bhawan Secretariat to carry out official duties. During both engagements, he was seen travelling without any official security convoy or police escort, underscoring his decision to relinquish the security cover assigned to him.

Kishore also questioned the efficiency of deploying three large government vehicles solely for transporting 16 security personnel. He argued that such an arrangement was neither economical nor operationally sound from the perspective of resource utilization and security management.

Delhi Chief Minister Promotes Green Living on Plastic-Free Day

NEW DELHI

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta on Friday appealed to residents of the national capital to adopt environmentally friendly habits by eliminating the use of single-use plastic bags and embracing sustainable alternatives. Her message coincided with the observance of International Plastic Bag Free Day, a global campaign dedicated to raising awareness about the harmful environmental impact of plastic waste and encouraging the use of reusable bags.

In a message shared on social media, the Chief Minister urged citizens to make environmental responsibility a permanent part of their daily lives rather than limiting their efforts to a single commemorative day. She encouraged people to carry cloth or jute bags while shopping and avoid using disposable plastic bags that contribute to pollution and environmental degradation.

The Chief Minister said that every small step taken by individuals can collectively help build a cleaner, greener, and plastic-free Delhi. She emphasized that responsible consumer habits play a vital role in protecting natural resources, reducing waste generation, and improving the quality of the urban environment.

Rajasthan Bans Sale, Use of Bupivacaine Injection Used In Caesarean Deliveries

JAIPUR

The Rajasthan Drug Control Department has imposed a statewide ban on the sale and use of a specific batch of Bupivacaine injection following reports of serious adverse reactions among patients at a hospital in Hyderabad.

Bupivacaine is widely used to administer spinal anaesthesia during various surgical procedures, including Caesarean deliveries. Instructions have been issued to immediately stop the use of this injection until the investigation is completed. This decision has been taken on the advice of anesthesiologists, said Dr Deepak Maheshwari, Principal, SMS Medical College.

The precautionary action comes after 16 patients reportedly developed adverse reactions after receiving the injection in Hyderabad.

Human rights catastrophe unfolding in Sudan's al-Obeid, says UN's Turk

GENEVA

The United Nations human rights chief on Friday said another human rights catastrophe was unfolding in Sudan, in the city of al-Obeid in North Kordofan, and urged the world to act.

The signs from al-Obeid are clear and unmistakable: Another human rights catastrophe is unfolding in Sudan, this time in the capital of the strategic state of North Kordofan, the U.N. high commissioner for human rights Volker Turk told delegates in Geneva during an urgent debate at the U.N. human rights council on the situation in the region. The urgent debate was called by Britain, whose envoy previously warned of the risk of large-scale atrocities following reports that Sudan's paramilitary Rapid Support Forces and allies are massing forces around the city of al-Obeid, which could result in an escalation of the conflict.

Iran Holds Grand Funeral for Slain Supreme Leader Khamenei

Iran began elaborate state funeral ceremonies honoring slain Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei amid heightened security and tensions nationwide

DUBAI

Iran on Friday witnessed the beginning of an extensive week-long state funeral for its slain Supreme Leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, whose body was placed in state inside a vast prayer hall in Tehran. Clerics, senior government officials, foreign dignitaries, military commanders, and thousands of mourners gathered to pay their final respects to the leader who ruled the Islamic Republic for thirty-seven years.

The funeral ceremonies come months after Khamenei was reportedly killed during United States and Israeli airstrikes at the beginning of a four-month conflict that dramatically reshaped regional politics. Iranian authorities have presented the funeral as a demonstration of national unity, public devotion, and unwavering commitment to the country's Islamic revolutionary ideals despite ongoing domestic and international challenges.

Khamenei's coffin was publicly unveiled before a large gathering of grieving supporters. Many mourners were seen weeping, chanting religious hymns, beating their chests in mourning, and throwing flowers toward the coffin as it passed through the crowd.

On Friday, the coffin, along with those of family members who were reportedly killed in the same strike, was placed inside the grand prayer hall dedicated to the memory of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the founder of the Islamic Republic.

According to official plans, Khamenei's remains will travel through several important religious centers, including Qom in Iran and the Iraqi cities of Najaf and Kerbala, before the final burial in Mashhad, home to one of the country's most significant pilgrimage shrines. Authorities expect millions of people to participate in the funeral processions throughout the week.

The funeral is taking place during a politically sensitive period for Iran. The country's leadership, backed by the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps, has portrayed its survival during the recent conflict as a historic victory against powerful foreign adversaries. However, political observers believe the nation continues to face serious internal divisions despite official declarations of national solidarity.

Years of severe international sanctions have significantly weakened Iran's economy, while repeated nationwide protests have reflected widespread public dissatisfaction. Security forces have responded forcefully to demonstrations in recent years, contributing to continued political tensions across the country.

Attention has also focused on Iran's new Supreme Leader, Mojtaba Khamenei, the late leader's son, who has made only limited public appearances since reportedly sustaining injuries during the strike that killed his father. His leadership is expected to shape Iran's political direction during a period of uncertainty and heightened regional tensions.

At least 3,700 excess deaths reported during heatwave in France

PARIS

France, Belgium, and the Netherlands have reported a combined total of approximately 3,700 excess deaths following a devastating June heatwave that pushed temperatures to record levels across Europe. Health authorities in the three countries cautioned that the figures remain preliminary and are likely to increase as further data becomes available.

The intense heatwave, which lasted from around June 20 to June 28, has been described by experts as the most severe ever recorded in Europe during this period. In addition to claiming thousands of lives, the extreme temperatures disrupted electricity generation, damaged transport and public infrastructure, and placed enormous pressure on hospitals and emergency healthcare services. Scientists have stated that the extraordinary weather event.

China dismisses US, EU criticism of new ethnic law as 'malicious smear'

BEIJING

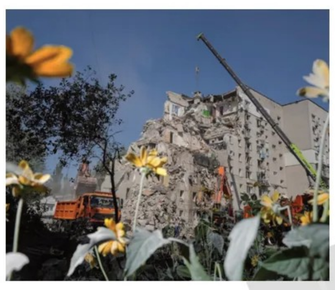
China dismissed U.S. and EU criticism of the country's new law on ethnic unity as a malicious smear and interference in its internal affairs on Friday, legislation one senior Taiwanese official likened to an imperial edict given its global sweep.

The law, which went into effect on Wednesday, gives Beijing the basis to take action against people outside its borders.

China passed the law in March to create a shared national identity among the country's 55 ethnic minority groups, which include Tibetans and Uyghurs, some of whom chafe under Chinese governance and have often staged protests, some of them violent.

Deadly Russian Strike Leaves Kyiv Mourning amid Rescue Efforts

KYIV



Ukraine observed a day of mourning as rescuers searched rubble following Russia's deadliest Kyiv attack this year

Rescue teams continued searching through the wreckage across Ukraine's capital, Kyiv, on Friday after a devastating Russian missile and drone assault killed at least 30 people and injured dozens more. The attack, described as the deadliest strike on the capital this year, prompted authorities to declare a day of mourning as emergency workers raced against time to locate survivors trapped beneath collapsed buildings.

Kyiv Mayor Vitali Klitschko confirmed that at least 92 people sustained injuries in the large-scale assault, while several residents remained missing. Among those unaccounted for were the parents of a 10-year-old boy who survived the attack but remains hospitalized, as well as a 15-year-old girl whose whereabouts were still unknown. Rescue operations entered a second consecutive day as crews carefully removed debris and forensic experts worked to identify recovered human remains.

Across the city, flags were lowered to half-mast in tribute to the victims. Residents gathered near damaged apartment blocks to mourn those killed while volunteers assisted emergency responders by distributing food, water, and medical supplies to affected families. The widespread destruction left entire neighborhoods scarred, with shattered buildings, burned vehicles, and debris covering major streets.

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy strongly condemned the attack, accusing Russia of deliberately targeting residential areas instead of pursuing peace. In his evening address, he stated that Russia had no justification for continuing the war beyond the use of ballistic missiles against civilian infrastructure. According to the president, more than 100 residential buildings across Kyiv suffered varying degrees of damage during the overnight bombardment, highlighting the unprecedented scale of destruction inflicted on the capital.

The violence extended beyond Kyiv. In Ukraine's northern Sumy region, a separate Russian drone strike on a residential house claimed the lives of four people overnight. The victims included a woman and her toddler daughter, according to the Prosecutor General's Office, adding to the growing civilian death toll from the latest wave of attacks.The latest strikes come as the conflict enters its fifth year. Although Ukraine has managed to slow Russian advances along much of the approximately 1,200-kilometer front line and has regained limited territory in some sectors, hostilities remain intense. Russia stated that the missile and drone attacks were carried out in retaliation for Ukrainian drone strikes deep inside Russian territory.

Israeli settlers seize Palestinian family's unfinished home

JALUD

A Palestinian family's dream of building a new home in the occupied West Bank has been shattered after a group of Israeli settlers allegedly seized the unfinished property before construction was completed. The incident has raised fresh concerns over increasing settlement expansion and the growing vulnerability of Palestinian communities living near Israeli settlements.

The house belonged to Mohammad Salameh, who had been constructing the two-story building for his family. According to Salameh, the home was intended to provide a place for his recently engaged son to begin married life. Instead, the unfinished structure was reportedly taken over by Israeli settlers, leaving the family uncertain whether they will ever regain possession of their property.

Verified video footage recorded earlier in the week showed at least six Israeli settlers moving around on the roof of the unfinished house, which is located beneath a nearby hill surrounded by Israeli settlements and smaller settlement outposts. The footage has intensified attention on the incident, which local residents describe as an alarming development in the ongoing dispute over land ownership in the territory.

Salameh said he sought assistance from both the Israeli military and police after discovering the occupation of his property. However, he claimed that his appeals produced no immediate action. He now fears that the house is permanently lost and believes neighboring Palestinian properties could face similar takeovers if authorities fail to intervene.

Expressing his frustration, Salameh said that only the enforcement of law and order could prevent further seizures. He warned that if settlers are allowed to keep one Palestinian home without consequences, other nearby houses could become future targets.

The Israeli military stated that it was examining requests for information regarding the incident but had not issued an official response. Israeli police also did not immediately comment on the reported seizure. Reuters said it was unable to contact the settlers involved for their response, although one individual was seen walking on the roof of the house during a subsequent visit.

Cossacks, volunteers maintain order at Black Sea petrol stations

ROSNEFT

Cossacks and volunteers have stepped in to help city officials and police keep order and prevent conflicts at petrol stations in the popular Russian Black Sea resort of Anapa, as Ukrainian attacks worsen a country-wide fuel crisis.

Strikes by Ukraine on energy infrastructure in Russia, the third-biggest oil producer globally, have triggered a fuel crisis in the world's largest country by territory, forcing it to import gasoline from as far away as India.

In Anapa, a popular vacation spot in the southern region of Krasnodar, Cossacks, a historic military and social community known for their distinctive uniforms and traditional fur hats, are among those helping to prevent fights when cars line up for fuel, the city's administration said on Telegram.

They regulate traffic flow, prevent conflicts and attempts to fill petrol cans with fuel, and ensure that the queue is maintained in an orderly manner, said the post published late.

Like other places in Russia and parts of Russian-occupied Ukraine, Anapa restricts drivers to buying 20 litres of gasoline per car, which a resident, Aleksandra Nesterenko, told a local TV station was enough for about a week.

I've come to terms with it. If the restrictions were introduced, then there's a good reason for them, Nesterenko, a woman who appeared to be in her 30s, said in the video that was attached to the city administration's post.

The changes have helped trim waiting times to 30 to 40 minutes from up to four hours, Arsen Melkumyan, an administration official, said in the same video, posing in front of a petrol station as cars kept coming and going.

Moldova's Prime Minister Munteanu steps down

CHISINAU

Moldova's Prime Minister Alexandru Munteanu said on Friday he was stepping down, in a surprise announcement that also triggers the resignation of the government.

Munteanu, who has served as prime minister since November 2025, gave no full explanation for his decision. Today, my term as Prime Minister comes to an end, he said in a post on X. The moment I realized that I could no longer carry out my mandate in accordance with my principles and convictions, I chose to step down.

The move is a challenge for President Maia Sandu and her ruling pro-European Party of Action and Solidarity (PAS), now in its second consecutive term.

According to Moldova's parliamentary procedure, Sandu will hold consultations with parliamentary groups and then nominate a candidate for prime minister.

F1 DRIVERS PREPARE FOR LEGO RACE AT SILVERSTONE

F1 drivers will tackle Silverstone in full-size Lego electric cars before the British Grand Prix, bringing playful pre-race chaos despite Lewis Hamilton's lighthearted hesitation

SILVERSTONE

Formula One drivers are gearing up for a unique challenge ahead of the British Grand Prix. Racers will lap the famous Silverstone circuit in life-size mini-cars built entirely out of Lego bricks. While many young drivers are thrilled, seven-time world champion Lewis Hamilton initially showed little enthusiasm for the stunt.

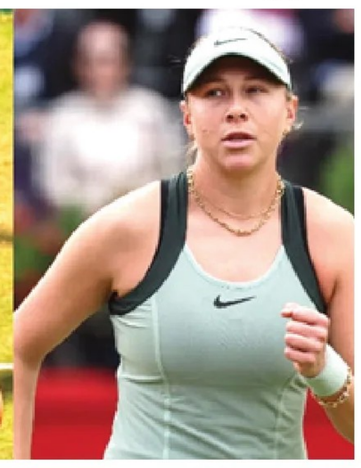
When asked about the parade, the British Ferrari driver jokingly called it the most dangerous part of the weekend. Last year in Miami, a similar Lego event resulted in multiple hilarious collisions that left toy bricks scattered across the track. Despite his hesitation, Ferrari later confirmed that Hamilton will participate alongside his eager teammate, Charles Leclerc, for the weekend's scheduled chaos.

Other drivers are openly excited about the playful challenge. McLaren's world champion, Lando Norris, admitted he is looking forward to the event, noting that simply making it back to the finish line intact would feel like a major victory.

These incredible vehicles are far from simple toys. A specialized team of twenty builders in the Czech Republic spent over 6,400 hours constructing the fleet. Each vehicle weighs around 280 kilograms and features more than 28,000 individual Lego bricks. Decorated in official 2026 team colors and driver numbers, the electric cars run on standard go-kart wheels. They can reach a maximum speed of 25 kilometers per hour, offering a slow and joyful spectacle for fans before the real high-speed racing begins.

Fritz and Anisimova lead American Wimbledon surge

LONDON



American tennis players dominated the grass courts of Wimbledon, securing a historic wave of victories. Amanda Anisimova survived a massive scare against fellow American Sofia Kenin to reach the third round. After being dragged into a fierce three-set battle, Anisimova relied on twenty powerful aces to secure a thrilling 6-2, 4-6, 7-6 win.

Anisimova's hard-fought victory sets up a blockbuster Saturday showdown against Madison Keys, beautifully coinciding with America's 250th independence anniversary. Meanwhile, Taylor Fritz emerged as a genuine title contender in the men's draw. The sixth seed used his massive serve to crush compatriot Patrick Kypson 6-2, 6-2, 7-5. Along with Frances Tiafoe, Fritz ensured the American flag kept flying incredibly high.

In total, fifteen American players have advanced to the third round this year. This impressive milestone marks their highest representation at this stage of the tournament since 1995. However, tough challenges lie ahead, as several young Americans are now scheduled to face top seeds like Alexander Zverev and Jannik Sinner.

In other action, defending women's champion Iga Swiatek cruised past former world number one Karolina Pliskova 6-1, 6-3. Swiatek will next face Alexandra Eala, who became the first-ever Filipino player to reach the third round of a Grand Slam. For the home crowd, Arthur Fery provided a lone bright spot. Watched by Kate, the Princess of Wales, the wildcard winner became the last British player standing after fighting past Finland's Otto Virtanen.

Coach White leads Junior Hockey Team to UK

BENGALURU

The Indian junior women's hockey team flew out from Bengaluru, heading to the United Kingdom for a crucial development tour.

Running from July 5 to 14, the trip will see the young squad play seven highly competitive matches across Scotland and England. This international tour serves as vital preparation for major upcoming events, including the Junior Asia Cup.

Led by new chief coach Tim White, the fresh twenty-four-player squad features Captain Khaidem Shileima Chanu alongside talented goalkeepers Nidhi and Engil Harsha Rani Minz. The lineup includes a solid defensive unit, an energetic midfield, and a sharp forward line featuring promising players like Sukhveer Kaur and Shashi Khasa.

Coach White explained that this European tour is a massive milestone for the development of the junior squad. Since many of these young athletes have never played against foreign teams before, the matches will offer a great learning experience. The team has spent ten weeks practicing specific strategies, and White plans to use these games to test those new systems under real match pressure.

The exciting tour kicks off with two challenging matches against the Scotland Senior Women's Team at the University of Edinburgh. After that, the Indian side will travel to the Lilleshall National Sports Centre. There, they will face tough junior teams from the United States, England, and Belgium. White expects a fierce challenge but believes the tour will successfully highlight the team's strengths and areas for growth.

GEORGIA STANWAY JOINS ARSENAL ON FREE TRANSFER

LONDON

England international midfielder Georgia Stanway has officially signed with Arsenal on a free transfer. The 27-year-old soccer star returns to the Women's Super League after completing a highly successful four-year spell with German giants Bayern Munich, where her contract recently expired.

Stanway enjoyed a trophy-filled career during her time in Germany. She helped Bayern Munich win four consecutive Bundesliga titles, two German Cups, and two German Super Cups. Over her four seasons abroad, she cemented her status as one of the best central midfielders in the world, scoring 32 goals in 128 appearances for the club.

Before moving to Germany in 2022, Stanway spent seven incredibly successful seasons with Manchester City. During her memorable time there, she made 186 appearances and scored 67 goals while winning a league title, three FA Cups, and three League Cups. Expressing her excitement about the move to North London, Stanway stated that she feels unbelievably proud to join a massive club like Arsenal, which is dedicated to pushing the women's game to brand new levels.

Arsenal's coaching staff is thrilled to add Stanway's immense talent and leadership to their roster. Last season, the team finished a close second in the league standings, just four points behind champions Manchester City. Arsenal officials believe that bringing in a proven winner like Stanway will add a fresh dimension to their midfield and provide the competitive edge they need to fight for major trophies next season.

Aston Martin debuts Honda engine upgrades in Zandvoort

SILVERSTONE

Formula One team Aston Martin is set to receive a powerful new Honda engine after the upcoming August summer break. The Japanese manufacturer's trackside boss, Shintaro Orihara, confirmed that the upgraded power unit will officially debut at the Dutch Grand Prix in Zandvoort.

Aston Martin has endured a very difficult racing season so far. The team currently sits at the bottom of the constructors' standings in tenth place, having managed to secure only a single point from the opening eight rounds of the championship. To turn their season around, the team is also planning to introduce a heavily revised car chassis at the Hungarian Grand Prix later this July.

Experts currently consider the Honda engine to be the weakest on the grid under the sport's new power unit regulations. Orihara admitted that the manufacturers are working around the clock to hit their Netherlands target. However, he realistically noted that the team will not catch up to top rivals like Mercedes or Red Bull Powertrains in a single step.

The upcoming upgrades offer a glimmer of hope for Aston Martin's drivers. Canadian racer Lance Stroll expressed optimism about the new aerodynamic packages and the fresh engine. Stroll, whose veteran teammate Fernando Alonso scored the team's lonely single point, stated that he hopes these changes will finally allow them to fight for points every single weekend.

Aston Martin will debut an upgraded Honda engine at the Dutch Grand Prix to revive their difficult racing season

CYCLING LEGEND CHRIS FROOME ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT

BARCELONA

Legendary British cyclist Chris Froome has officially retired from professional sports. The four-time Tour de France champion confirmed the major news ahead of this year's highly anticipated Tour de France. The announcement brings a definitive end to a glittering and dominant career that spanned nearly two decades.

The 41-year-old sports icon has not competed since sustaining life-threatening injuries during a horrific training crash in France last summer. The devastating collision left him requiring emergency surgery for a spine fracture, a collapsed lung, a pericardial rupture, and five broken ribs. Speaking directly about the incident, Froome admitted that the terrible fall was not the way he wanted his journey to end, but he instantly knew his racing days were over.

Froome retires as one of the most successful general classification riders in the modern history of cycling. He won a spectacular total of seven Grand Tours, a haul that includes four Tour de France crowns, two Vuelta a España titles, and one thrilling victory at the Giro d'Italia. Representing Great Britain, he also captured prestigious Olympic bronze medals in the individual time trial at both the London 2012 and Rio 2016 Games.

While a serious 2019 crash and subsequent collarbone injuries in 2025 severely hampered his later racing years, his impact on the sport remains completely undeniable. Instead of competing on the roads, Froome will stay close to the upcoming race action this summer, transitioning into an official brand ambassador role to inspire the next generation of riders.

Deepti Sharma praises mentality of Dhoni and Djokovic

LONDON

Indian cricket star Deepti Sharma has compared MS Dhoni to tennis legend Novak Djokovic. She believes both iconic athletes share a rare ability to stay calm and focused during high-pressure moments.

Deepti is currently attending the famous Wimbledon tennis tournament for the first time. She explained that Djokovic is widely admired for his incredible mental strength and his refusal to ever give up. In cricket, she feels Dhoni displays the exact same cool attitude. According to Deepti, Dhoni handles stressful match situations so effortlessly that he never looks troubled. She notes that watching both superstars inspires other athletes to stay strong when it matters most.

Being at Wimbledon is a dream come true for the Indian all-rounder. She revealed that watching a match live at the historic venue had been on her bucket list for many years. Deepti admitted she used to watch the tournament on television, but experiencing the energetic crowd and unique atmosphere in person is truly amazing.

While she grew up watching Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal, Djokovic has become her absolute favourite player to follow. If she could choose any companions to spend a day with at Wimbledon, Deepti named Indian cricket legends Sachin Tendulkar, Ravi Shastri, and Sunil Gavaskar. She believes sharing the experience with them would be fantastic because of their deep sporting knowledge. Deepti is the second Indian cricketer to visit the tournament this week, following Shikhar Dhawan's recent appearance.

Tanya's defeat signals end of Indian campaign

TORONTO

India's journey at the Canada Open badminton tournament has officially ended. The final remaining Indian players, Aakarshi Kashyap and Tanya Hemanth, both suffered painful second-round defeats in the women's singles event.

Aakarshi Kashyap put up a brave fight against America's Beiwen Zhang. The intense match lasted for over an hour. Aakarshi started well and took an early lead, but her opponent fought back to win a close opening game. The Indian athlete pushed hard and tried to make a comeback, but Zhang proved too strong in the final moments, winning the deciding game to seal the match. This disappointment marks Aakarshi's third career loss against the American player.

Meanwhile, Tanya Hemanth faced a much tougher time on the court. She was easily defeated by Japan's Riko Gunji in just 31 minutes. Gunji dominated the entire match, winning comfortably with a score of 21-11, 21-11. This was the second week in a row that the Japanese player knocked Tanya out of a tournament.

Napoli appoints Massimiliano Allegri as Head Coach

NAPOLI

Massimiliano Allegri is officially the new head coach of Napoli. The Serie A club announced that the 58-year-old tactical veteran has signed a long-term contract to lead the team until June 30, 2029.

Allegri arrives in Naples looking for redemption after a very difficult period in his career. His second stint managing AC Milan was cut short this past May after just one single season. Milan's American owners, RedBird Capital Partners, fired him following a dramatic late-season collapse that they publicly called an "unequivocal failure." A heartbreaking 2-1 loss to Cagliari on the final day pushed Milan down to a fifth-place finish, meaning they missed out on crucial Champions League qualification for the second year in a row.

The coach's firing was part of a massive management shakeup at Milan that also saw senior executives Giorgio Furlani, Igli Tare, and Geoffrey Moncada leave the club. Before their final slump, where they managed to win only one of their last four matches, Milan had spent most of the season fighting near the very top of the Serie A table.

At Napoli, Allegri faces the big task of replacing Antonio Conte. Conte decided to leave his post despite successfully guiding the team to a strong second-place finish behind the reigning league champions, Inter Milan. As one of Italy's most successful managers with six Serie A trophies to his name, Allegri will look to use his deep experience to bring championship silverware back to Naples.

Australia clears Sportsbet after safety upgrades

CANBERRA

Australia's financial crime watchdog, AUSTRAC, announced that online betting giant Sportsbet has successfully fixed its serious anti-money laundering flaws. The company faced heavy scrutiny two years ago for weak customer monitoring and poor risk checks. Following an independent audit, officials confirmed that Sportsbet upgraded its internal security systems to properly combat illegal money tracking. While Sportsbet declined to comment on the announcement, the watchdog warned it will keep a very close eye on the fast-growing online gambling industry, which remains highly attractive to tech-savvy criminals seeking to hide dirty cash.

India's service sector shows steady growth

NEW DELHI

India's service sector kept growing in June, hitting a solid score of 57.4 on the economic growth scale. A score above fifty means the economy is expanding. While local shopping slowed down slightly, a massive wave of online orders, busy tourist season, and heavy customer bookings kept businesses running smoothly. Even better, international sales boomed as foreign countries bought more Indian services. Companies also got a welcome break as the rising cost of doing business slowed to a five-month low, keeping local business owners confident about the future.

Solo entrepreneurs lead India's loan boom

NEW DELHI

Independent business owners are borrowing money faster than big corporations, says a new reports. Total business debt reached nearly sixty-six lakh crore rupees, jumping fourteen percent this year. Surprisingly, individual entrepreneur loans grew nearly twice as fast as corporate loans over three years. These solo dreamers now hold over a quarter of all business debt, frequently using property, trucks, and unsecured loans to fund their shops. Non-banking financial companies are driving this change by issuing half of these personal business loans, helping small neighborhood startups thrive across India.

Indian consumer goods sales set to explode

NEW DELHI

India's consumer goods market is bracing for a massive boom, with revenues expected to jump over seventeen percent annually through 2030. Reports reveal that tax cuts, easy bank loans, and a growing desire for premium products are driving this shopping surge. Smaller cities are also buying more goods than ever before. Meanwhile, India's overall economy remains rock solid, backed by strong manufacturing and a booming healthcare sector. Experts predict healthy financial growth ahead for most local industries, thanks to steady public demand and supportive government policies despite global tensions.

MeitY Secretary urges 15 % for IT Cybersecurity budget

MeitY Secretary S. Krishnan urged governments to allocate fifteen percent of IT budgets to cybersecurity for stronger digital defense

NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) Secretary, S. Krishnan, stated that governments must allocate at least 15 percent of their IT budgets to cybersecurity. He emphasized that digital safety cannot be an afterthought and must be built directly into systems.

Speaking at a cybersecurity summit organized by the Confederation of Indian Industry, Krishnan explained that organizations must remain constantly alert against digital threats. He urged businesses to invest more resources into safety, support local security products, and quickly report any data breaches to official agencies. According to Krishnan, sharing this vital information is necessary to build a strong collective defense across the nation.

Other defense experts at the event discussed how rapid technological advancements are creating new global security challenges. Officials noted that the rise of Artificial General Intelligence is changing the geopolitical landscape, making it crucial for the nation to develop its own advanced AI models. Additionally, experts warned that upcoming quantum computing technology will eventually make current digital security systems useless, meaning new protective measures must become a top priority.

The conference also highlighted how the fast growth of 5G and 6G networks has given hackers more opportunities to target both large corporations and small businesses. The important event brought together top policymakers and tech experts to find better ways to protect India's digital future against these evolving global threats.

India seeks US AI for Cyber Defenses

NEW DELHI: India is talking with the United States to get its hands on Anthropic's advanced AI program, Project Glasswing. The goal is to aggressively test and protect India's critical digital networks against sophisticated cyber threats. Government official S. Krishnan shared that this cutting-edge tool will allow experts to stress-test vital software. While waiting for the US partnership to finalize, India is not sitting idle. Tech teams are already running safety checks, completing up to seventy percent of the testing by using existing AI systems to lock down security and protect public data.

Big cash boost: NRIs flood Indian banks

An innovative RBI scheme has sparked a $3 billion NRI deposit surge, with banks offering up to 7.5% interest to boost India's foreign exchange reserves.

MUMBAI

Indian banks are seeing a big jump in overseas money, thanks to a clever new scheme by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI). Non-Resident Indians (NRIs) are rushing to park their savings back home, bringing in an estimated $3 billion to $4 billion so far.

Bankers are thrilled and expect this number to skyrocket to $50 billion soon. The biggest wave of money is coming from Indians living in the Gulf region. To make this happen, the RBI made a smart move last month. They promised to pay for the insurance costs that banks usually face when handling foreign money.

Even better, the central bank has removed strict rules on interest rates until September 30, 2026. This allows banks to fight for NRI accounts by offering fantastic returns. Right now, big banks are giving up to 6.5 percent interest, while smaller finance banks are offering a whopping 7.5 percent for long-term deposits.

Before these changes, banks were tied down by strict limits and could not offer such high rates. Now, they have the total freedom to give overseas Indians a much better deal.

Lenders are not sitting around either. Teams are actively reaching out to NRI communities worldwide to spread the word. This massive cash inflow is great news for India. It will help build up the nation's foreign exchange reserves and keep the Indian rupee strong against global currencies.

RECENT HOME LOAN INTEREST RATE CUTS HAVE KEPT HOUSING AFFORDABLE IN SIX OF INDIA'S EIGHT MAJOR CITIES

Housing stays affordable nationwide except Mumbai & Delhi

NEW DELHI

Buying a home remains affordable in six out of eight major Indian cities, thanks to recent cuts in loan interest rates. New reports reveals that lower borrowing costs are helping families manage their monthly home loan payments easily.

Ahmedabad has emerged as the most budget-friendly city, where families spend just 23 percent of their income on home loans. Kolkata and Pune follow closely as highly affordable options. However, Mumbai and Delhi-NCR remain expensive, with families spending well over half their monthly earnings on housing. Costs also rose slightly in Bengaluru and Delhi due to climbing property prices.

The real estate market has been on a rollercoaster ride lately. During the pandemic, interest rates dropped drastically, making homes cheap. Rates then spiked when inflation hit, making homes expensive again. Fortunately, recent rate cuts by the Reserve Bank of India have restored balance, keeping the market steady and active.

Experts note that while rising property prices have slowed down affordability gains, the situation remains positive.

Strong job growth, steady salaries, and helpful bank loans are keeping the dream of homeownership alive for many. Looking ahead, stable incomes will be key to keeping Indian housing affordable for everyone.

Commercial renewable energy to reach 100 gw, say reports

NEW DELHI

India's commercial and industrial renewable energy capacity is set to skyrocket from 32 gigawatts to 100 gigawatts by 2032. A new report reveals that green energy storage systems will also leap tenfold to 31 gigawatt-hours, driven by corporate green goals and rising electricity costs.

The upcoming India Energy Storage Week 2026 exhibition in New Delhi will officially release these findings. The event will bring together government officials, regulators, and industry leaders to solve policy bottlenecks and accelerate India's transition toward cleaner, more resilient power sources.

State-level policy innovations are major drivers of this explosive growth. For instance, Maharashtra now mandates energy storage for all new renewable projects above 100 kilowatts. Other major states like Gujarat, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, and Rajasthan are also speeding up green adoption by removing transmission charges and introducing helpful billing policies.

Heavy industries will remain the biggest users of these massive battery storage systems, using them to ensure uninterrupted operations. Meanwhile, data centers and critical public infrastructure, including hospitals, airports, and metro stations, will see the fastest growth in clean energy adoption.

Tech alliance: Japan drives Indian job boom

NEW DELHI

Japan has become the top contributor to India's Global Capability Centre (GCC) ecosystem within the Asia-Pacific region.

Reports reveals that Japanese companies have already set up more than 100 of these specialized hubs across the country to drive global corporate innovation.

These centers are rapidly transforming into vital setups for high-tech engineering, artificial intelligence, cloud computing, and advanced digital manufacturing.

Experts note that India perfectly combines massive scale, top-tier engineering talent, and digital expertise, making it a highly attractive destination for major Japanese enterprises looking to grow.

This booming partnership is projected to generate a massive $470 billion to $600 billion economic impact by 2030, contributing up to 2.8 percent to India's GDP.

While large metros hold the majority of these hubs, the next phase of expansion is moving into smaller, upcoming cities like Ahmedabad, Jaipur, Coimbatore, Kochi, and Indore due to cheaper costs and supportive local government policies. The current setup shows a heavy focus on technical industries.

Bangladesh's electricity bills pile up, crisis looms

DHAKA

Bangladesh is facing a severe energy crisis as the government delays massive payments to independent power companies. The state-run Bangladesh Power Development Board currently owes these private producers around Tk 25,000 crore. This massive delay has left electricity companies without enough cash to buy fuel, maintain equipment, or pay their workers.

Experts warn that this financial crunch could trigger a dangerous chain reaction. Because local banks heavily funded these power projects, a failure to pay could ruin bank assets and freeze lending across the entire economy. If these plants cannot buy fuel, widespread power outages and long blackouts will likely follow soon.

The crisis also threatens Bangladesh's international reputation. Foreign banks and global investors fund big projects expecting contracts to be respected.

If trust breaks down, securing future loans for ports, roads, and energy will become incredibly expensive or impossible.

To prevent a total collapse, the government, power companies, and global lenders must act immediately. Experts suggest creating a clear repayment plan, using government-backed financial tools, or reorganizing the debt to help fix the cash shortage. The main goal is to get money flowing again while understanding the government's tight budget limits.

Green policy set to boost M'rashtra's economy

MUMBAI: Maharashtra is launching a bold plan to fight pollution and become a major green manufacturing hub. The government has officially approved the Maharashtra Bioplastics Policy 2026. Running until 2031, this project aims to turn the state into a national center for eco-friendly plastic research, production, and global exports. Officials expect the new policy to bring in ₹25,000 crore in investments and create over 130,000 jobs. It aims to manufacture 200,000 tonnes of bioplastics every year, cutting India's reliance on costly imports by half. The state also wants to swap 30 percent of single-use plastics for compostable alternatives and connect 100,000 local farmers to the supply chain. To back this mission, the cabinet cleared a large fund of ₹10,892 crore.

UIDAI launches free mobile email update feature

NEW DELHI

Over 2.5 lakh citizens successfully updated their linked email addresses within just two days of a new mobile application launch. The Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) introduced this feature to allow users to update their personal credentials directly from their smartphones, removing the hassle of visiting physical enrollment centers.

To encourage widespread adoption, the government has made this email update feature entirely free of charge for the next six months, starting July 1, 2026. This initiative aligns with the country's ongoing digital transformation goals to make essential public services more accessible to everyone.

Linking an email profile to the national identity database provides a crucial security boost. Citizens will now receive real-time email alerts whenever an authentication request is made, creating an extra layer of defense against identity theft. The newly upgraded application serves as a one-stop platform for multiple identity services. Beyond email changes, the app has already helped over 40 lakh people update their mobile numbers and another 10 lakh residents modify their home addresses.

Authorities are strongly urging citizens to take advantage of this complimentary window. The official application is now available for download across both Android and iOS devices, allowing users to keep their information accurate with just a few clicks.

America remains India's biggest LPG supplier

NEW DELHI

The United States kept its crown as India's biggest supplier of cooking gas this June. India has been actively diversifying its energy imports to protect itself from ongoing political tensions and supply uncertainties across West Asia.

According to data, India brought in over 773 thousand metric tonnes of liquefied petroleum gas from America. This represents an impressive nineteen percent increase compared to May.

Overall, India's total gas imports ticked up by three percent this month. Meanwhile, the United Arab Emirates took the second spot, while Saudi Arabia and Kuwait trailed behind.

This growing bond with America is part of a deliberate plan to avoid relying too heavily on any single region. In fact, Indian state refiners have signed a long-term deal to import millions of tonnes of American gas starting this year.

This move heavily reduces dependence on traditional Gulf suppliers.

Before the West Asian conflict, nearly ninety percent of India's gas shipments traveled through the risky Strait of Hormuz.

Seoul plans Starlink style network and faster moon mission

SEOUL

South Korea is ready to launch its own massive space network by 2035. The country plans to put hundreds of small satellites into a low orbit around Earth. This project will work just like SpaceX's famous Starlink system, helping the nation build a stronger home-grown space industry.

Space experts say this new network is vital for protecting national security and setting up future 6G internet networks. At the same time, the government is speeding up its timeline to reach the moon. Officials announced that South Korea now wants to land its first spacecraft on the lunar surface by 2030, which is two years earlier than they originally planned.

To hit this fast deadline, scientists will not wait for their next-generation rocket to be finished. Instead, they will use the current three-stage Nuri rocket to carry a smaller, privately made lander into space. The nation also plans to send a moon communications satellite into orbit by 2029 and a scientific probe by 2031 to prepare for bigger missions. To make these dreams a reality, South Korean leaders are reaching out to global partners. A special team of government and private experts is currently traveling to Europe.

E-RICKSHAW HACK CRISIS

Hackers via apps remotely freeze moving e-rickshaws

NEW DELHI

The government has banned several dangerous mobile applications, including China's BAT-BMS, Lossigy, and Epoch i-ion, after shocking social media videos showed pranksters remotely shutting down moving e-rickshaws using smartphones.

The Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology ordered Google and Apple to pull the apps over serious cybersecurity and safety threats. Originally designed to monitor Bluetooth-enabled lithium-ion batteries by tracking health, temperature, and voltage, the apps also include a feature to completely turn off battery power for maintenance. The crisis hits because many Indian e-rickshaws use these Chinese battery systems without any password protection, leaving them on factory-default settings. Consequently, anyone standing within a 20-meter Bluetooth range can easily hijack the connection and flip the kill switch. Once disabled, the vehicle loses all power, and drivers cannot restart it using the physical ignition key.

One helpless driver shared how his vehicle abruptly died while carrying passengers, forcing him to pay a mechanic 300 rupees just to reconnect the app and unlock the battery. Stranded drivers are left highly vulnerable as they lack the technological expertise to protect their vehicles.

Fortunately, this digital threat only targets unencrypted, Bluetooth-linked lithium-ion batteries. Traditional lead-acid batteries and newer electric cars remain completely safe, as they use advanced, multi-layered encryption that blocks unauthorized wireless access.

LIVERPOOL honors Diogo Jota on death anniversary

Liverpool honors the late Diogo Jota and his brother, while Portugal dedicates a thrilling World Cup victory to them

LIVERPOOL

Premier League club Liverpool has paid an emotional tribute to former Portuguese forward Diogo Jota and his brother, Andre Silva, on the first anniversary of their tragic deaths. The club honored their lasting legacy both on and off the football pitch in a heartfelt message.

Jota and his brother lost their lives on July 3, 2025, in a devastating car crash in northwestern Spain when their vehicle left the road. The unexpected tragedy deeply saddened the global football community. One year later, Liverpool shared a moving post on social media to comfort the family, stating that the brothers remain forever in the hearts of everyone at the club.

During his successful time at Anfield, Jota became a beloved figure among fans due to his incredible work rate, goals, and deep commitment. To ensure the brothers are never forgotten, Liverpool recently unveiled a permanent monument outside their stadium on 97 Avenue. The special memorial is beautifully titled "Forever 20," representing Jota's iconic jersey number.

This specific location holds great meaning for the club, as it is the exact spot where thousands of grieving fans gathered last year to leave flowers, banners, and scarves. Liverpool reaffirmed its continuous love, thoughts, and prayers for the grieving family during this difficult time. The club stated that while the pain of losing them is still immense, the positive impact the brothers made across the world will continue to shine brightly for generations to come.

RONALDO WINS EMOTIONAL WC FOR JOTA

TORONTO

Portugal pulled off a thrilling 2-1 World Cup win against Croatia, dedicating the beautiful victory to their late teammate Diogo Jota. The emotional match took place exactly one year after Jota tragically died in a car crash. After trailing early, superstar Cristiano Ronaldo scored a crucial penalty to tie the intense game. Goncalo Ramos then headed in the dramatic winning goal during stoppage time. After the final whistle, an emotional Ronaldo held up Jota's number 21 jersey to honor his dear friend. Portugal now moves on to face rivals Spain on Monday in a massive Round of 16 knockout game.

Embolo's strike sets up comfortable victory

Switzerland comfortably defeated Algeria 2-0 to reach the World Cup Round of 16, securing their third consecutive tournament victory through goals from Embolo and Ndoye

VANCOUVER

Switzerland put on a fantastic show, defeating Algeria 2-0 at BC Place to comfortably secure their spot in the World Cup Round of 16.

Key goals from Breel Embolo and Dan Ndoye powered the Swiss team to victory. Although Algeria played well during parts of the first half, Ndoye's quick goal right after halftime completely destroyed their confidence. From that moment on, Algeria never really looked like making a comeback.

This major win means Switzerland has now won three World Cup matches in a row for the very first time. This hot streak includes earlier group-stage victories against Canada and Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Switzerland took control very early, scoring in the tenth minute. Johan Manzambi made a brilliant run into the box and passed the ball back to Embolo, who easily tapped it in.

The Swiss team struck again just seconds into the second half. Denis Zakaria sent in a cross that the Algerian defense failed to clear properly. The ball fell to Ndoye, who calmly picked his spot from the edge of the box and fired it home.

Algeria faced a massive hill to climb, especially since Switzerland had lost only one of their last seventeen games. The Algerian attackers could not break through the solid Swiss defense. Switzerland has now reached the knockout stage for the fourth tournament in a row. They will stay in Vancouver to face either Colombia or Ghana on July 7.

JULIAN NAGELSMANN RESIGNS AS GERMANY'S HEAD COACH

BERLIN

Julian Nagelsmann has resigned as the head coach of Germany's football team following their shocking early exit from the 2026 World Cup. The German Football Association pressured the coach to step down after a painful defeat against Paraguay in the Round of 32.

The famous world champions were knocked out in Boston after a dramatic penalty shootout. The intense match ended in a 1-1 draw after extra time, but Paraguay held their nerve to win the shootout 4-3. This devastating loss shocked fans worldwide, as Germany historically possessed an incredibly strong record in penalty shootouts.

Following the tournament disaster, soccer directors held emergency talks to analyze what went wrong. Leaders made it clear that the national team could not simply return to regular business after such a humiliating failure. Facing a certain dismissal, Nagelsmann chose to walk away early, which allows him to collect a large compensation payout. His original contract was supposed to run until the 2028 European Championship.

Now, all eyes are turning to Jurgen Klopp as the absolute favorite to take over the empty hot seat. The highly popular former Liverpool boss is currently working as a television pundit and has expressed great interest in reviving Germany's soccer fortunes. Although Klopp is under contract as Red Bull's global head of football, his deal includes a special release clause that allows him to accept the German national job immediately. Officials plan to start formal job talks with Klopp very soon now.

Proteas will bounce back stronger, vows coach Mashimbyi

LONDON

South Africa's women's cricket coach, Mandla Mashimbyi, promises his team will return stronger after their tough T20 World Cup semi-final loss to England.

The Proteas were knocked out at The Oval after England grabbed a solid 40-run win to secure a spot in the grand finale against Australia. South Africa started the match well, quickly dismissing three key England batters. However, a massive partnership between Nat Sciver-Brunt and Heather Knight turned the game around.

Instead of feeling defeated, Mashimbyi is focusing on the lessons learned. He explained that the team now knows exactly where they need to improve. The plan is to fix these gaps so they can truly dominate in future global tournaments.

Despite missing out on the final, South Africa had many bright spots. Batter Tazmin Brits led the scoring with 225 runs. Meanwhile, experienced star bowlers Marizanne Kapp and Shabnim Ismail each took eight wickets. Ismail had even come out of retirement just to play in this tournament. Mashimbyi hopes the veteran bowler will decide to stay on with the squad.

Looking back, the coach admitted their bowling style was too similar, making it easy for England to predict their moves. He emphasized that the main goal now is to build a more varied attack and develop new talent.

YAMAL SHINES AS SPAIN MOVES CLOSER TO GLORY

INGLEWOOD

Spain sent a strong warning to their tournament rivals with a flawless 3-0 victory over Austria. The dominant win easily pushed the former world champions into the round of 16. Spain has yet to concede a single goal in the competition and will now play against Portugal in the next stage.

While Spain's relentless attack looked spectacular, their defense was historically perfect. They did not allow Austria to take a single shot on target. This impressive feat marks the first time a team has achieved a defensive shutout in a World Cup knockout match since the 2014 final.

The breakthrough came when Marc Cucurella delivered a perfect cross to Mikel Oyarzabal, who smoothly guided the ball into the bottom corner. Austria tried to respond in the second half, but Sasa Kalajdzic sent his header harmlessly over the net. Spain doubled their lead in the 66th minute when Pedro Porro scored a great header before a packed celebrity crowd. Oyarzabal then sealed the match in the 89th minute, scoring his second goal after an Austrian defensive mistake.

The victory was extra special for 18-year-old star Lamine Yamal. The teenage winger looked fully recovered from a recent hamstring injury, causing constant trouble for Austria with his quick dribbling. After the match, the young player stated that he is rediscovering his best rhythm. He added that the entire squad is highly focused on making their childhood dreams come true by bringing the World Cup trophy home to Spain.

KOUNDE DISMISSES YAMAL'S CLAIMS OVER FAVORITES TAG

MASSACHUSETTS

French defender Jules Kounde has laughed off comments made by Spanish star Lamine Yamal regarding who holds the advantage at the World Cup. Yamal recently claimed that France should not be considered favourites over Spain, but Kounde insists the remarks do not bother him at all.

Both European giants have enjoyed excellent, unbeaten runs in the tournament so far to reach the Round of 16. France has looked incredibly dominant, easily defeating teams like Senegal, Iraq, Norway, and Sweden. Meanwhile, Spain bounced back from an opening draw against Cape Verde to secure consecutive wins over Saudi Arabia, Uruguay, and Austria.

Yamal, who plays alongside Kounde at Barcelona, previously stated that France cannot be considered better than Spain since the French team has not beaten them since the Euros. The teenager also argued that group stage form matters very little once the knockout rounds begin, stating that no single team stands clearly above the rest.

Responding to his club teammate, Kounde described Yamal as an ambitious, talented player who simply likes to speak his mind. He added that being labeled the tournament favourite means nothing on the pitch and that the comments actually made him smile.

Ndoye capitalizes on error to defeat Algeria

VANCOUVER

Switzerland cruised into the World Cup knockout stage with a dominant 2-0 victory over Algeria. This historic win marks the first time the Swiss team has progressed past the opening knockout round since 1938. They will now face either Colombia or Ghana right back here in Vancouver in their next match.

The Swiss team executed a perfect tactical plan created by Coach Murat Yakin. They struck early in the tenth minute when 20-year-old Johan Manzambi sprinted down the left wing and passed to Breel Embolo, who easily tapped the ball into the net. This early goal allowed Switzerland to change their formation, control the field, and completely choke Algeria's attacking play.

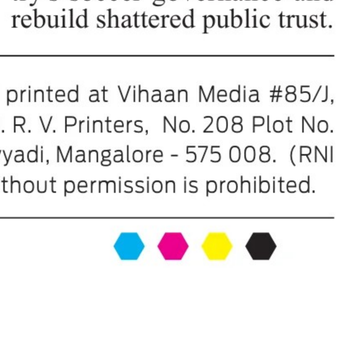
The Swiss doubled their lead immediately after halftime. Following a poor defensive clearance by Algeria, winger Dan Ndoye quickly grabbed the loose ball and smoothly guided his shot past goalkeeper Luca Zidane. Algeria tried to fight back, but Captain Riyad Mahrez missed a crucial chance by firing his shot straight into a defender.

With star player Granit Xhaka leading the defense, Switzerland easily kept control for the rest of the match. For Algeria, the defeat brought an extra wave of sadness. After the final whistle, their 35-year-old captain, Mahrez, emotionally announced his official retirement from international football. He stated that individual mistakes cost his team dearly, making this match his final appearance for the national squad.

Switzerland cruised into the World Cup knockout stage after defeating Algeria 2-0, forcing Riyad Mahrez into retirement

South Korea coach resigns amid World Cup loss

SEOUL



South Korea's early World Cup elimination has triggered a massive national scandal, leading to the head coach's resignation and demands for a government investigation. Despite boasting a "golden generation" of stars like Son Heung-min, the team failed to cross the group stage.

The immediate flashpoint occurred during a decisive 1-0 loss to South Africa, where coach Hong Myung-bo faced heavy criticism for benching star forward Son until halftime. However, public anger runs much deeper than bad tournament tactics. Fans are furious with the Korea Football Association (KFA) over a history of toxic management and shady hiring practices.

Hong's appointment in 2024 was highly controversial. The KFA allegedly abandoned a month-long search for international candidates to hire Hong after a single, informal meeting, violating its own procedural rules. This sparked public outrage, a tense parliamentary hearing, and an official sports ministry audit that exposed widespread organizational flaws.

Following the team's exit, President Lee Jae Myung expressed deep frustration online, blaming the failure on bad personnel decisions. He stated that favoritism and personal loyalty had been prioritized over actual competence, and ordered an immediate investigation into the KFA's management.

Stepping off the plane in Seoul, a dejected Hong took full responsibility and officially resigned while angry fans held up banners reading "South Korean football is dead." The political backlash is set to intensify next week as parliament holds special hearings to reform the country's soccer governance and rebuild shattered public trust.
